ON COTTON EXCHANGE.
Lapse in the Liverpool Reports Causes More Excitement.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2.—There was again some excitement on the floor of the Cotton Exchange today due to an unaccountable lapse of the regular reports from Liverpool, and for a quarter of an hour there were delays in the receipt of advices which compelled President Parker to take drastic precautionary measures against any possible repetition of the fiasco of last Friday.

Arrangements were promptly made with the Postal Telegraph Company for complete reports over the wires of that company on all market quotations, as a check against the regular reports from the Western Union. There is no clue yet to the solution of the mystery of Friday.

CONFUSION EXPLAINED.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—In explanation of the confusion in the cotton-market prices in Liverpool, telegraphed to New Orleans last Friday by the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company, the following statement was issued today, in which the company says:

"The confusion in the Liverpool changes of the cotton quotations sent out by the commercial news department of the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company on Friday, September 29, was caused by the necessity of procuring them from Liverpool direct instead of

FATAL STREET FIGHT.

Fifteen Men Engage in a Desperate Battle at Chicago.

[CHICAGO, OCT. 2.—] Fifteen men with revolvers, knives and clubs, engaged in a desperate hand-to-hand street battle last night at Black Hawk and Elston avenue. Before the officers arrived in response to a riot call, Colac Lisan, who, the police say, was an ex-convict, had been killed, and several others badly wounded.

Only two of the fifteen were arrested.
The fight started over the assertion of one of the men that some one in the crowd had stolen his money.

WITH WIDE-OPEN ARMS

NATIONAL CAPITAL CLAIMS ADMIRAL DEWEY AS ITS OWN HENCEFORTH.

Unparalleled Enthusiasm for the Hero of Manila Bay as He Appeared Before the People in Company With the President of the Republic.

At the White House the Naval Commander Meets the Head of the Nation and Mrs. McKinley—Also the Members of the Cabinet—Official Washington Turns Out—Review of a Civic Parade, Then Rest.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch] Admiral Dewey was due to arrive in Washington at 6:50 o'clock this evening. That is exactly the time that he did arrive, and at that very moment the nation's capital broke into a delirium of patriotic enthusiasm and is not over it yet.

The signal for Dewey's arrival at the Sixth street station was a salute of seventeen guns. When the first one of these sounded, every steam whistle was let loose, fire-crackers were set off, sky rockets went up and people began to yell.
Around the station there were thousands of people. Nobody was allowed inside except the committee in charge of arrangements, so the first glimpse that Washington got of Dewey was when he came out of the station, saluted the line of cavalry drawn up across the street to act as his escort to the White House. A band was playing "Under the Double Eagle" and there was much red light and yelling.

Admiral Dewey was whirled into Pennsylvania avenue and straight there the fun began in earnest. The magnificent thoroughfare was lined with people, and for a mile and a half down toward the Treasury building it was ablaze with light. The cavalrymen started their horses off at a brisk trot, and Dewey's carriage followed at a rattling clip.

When he reached the place where Pennsylvania avenue sweeps round into Fifteenth street, by the Treasury building, he found himself facing a grand stand filled with several thousand yelling people. Behind him came thousands more, shouting with a mighty cheer, and everywhere about him nothing but people, and noise and welcome.
In front of the White House he encountered another great crowd which completely filled Lafayette Square and was capable of making a great deal of noise.

The crowds were not allowed inside the White House grounds, and so when Dewey's carriage was whirled inside those gates he was out of reach for the time being. At the White House, assembled in the East Room, were all the members of the President's Cabinet except Secretary Gage, who is out of the city. There were many military men there, too, and naval officers.

When Dewey entered the room, he was officially welcomed home by Secretary of the Navy Long. Not much was said. Dewey seemed relieved to get into that place, and Secretary Long seemed wonderfully proud to greet him, and they shook hands with great fervor. Then the admiral met all the other members of the Cabinet, and the army and navy officers. This only took up about ten minutes.

Afterward Admiral Dewey was escorted into the Red Room by Secretary Long, where he met the President, who shook hands with the admiral and patted him on the back. Then the Executive held Dewey's hand awhile, while the President's other hand rested upon the Admiral's shoulder. Both men seemed supremely happy. They laughed jocosely. They talked maybe five minutes, and then it was time to go out onto the reviewing stand by the Treasury Building and review the parade, which was scheduled to start a little before 8 o'clock.

The entire company left the White House by a rear entrance, and President McKinley walked with Admiral Dewey to the reviewing stand. They went arm in arm, and talked and laughed. There was very little ceremony about anything. It is only a little way across the White House grounds to the reviewing stand, and the point was reached fully fifteen minutes before the parade started.

When Dewey made his appearance in the stand more ear-splitting cheering started. Projecting out in front of the reviewing stand was a reproduction of the prow of the ship Olympia. In this were two seats, one for the Admiral and the other for the President. President McKinley pushed his seat toward the rear when the two entered the place.
Admiral Dewey sat well toward the front, because the President would not let him sit anywhere else. Behind them sat the members of the Cabinet. In the stand were the Governors of eight or ten States, with their staffs, naval and army officers by the score, and everybody in polite society in Washington.

The parade was what was called a "civic parade." That means, it was the best that the home people could do.
There were scores of secret, political, educational, religious and patriotic societies in line. It took them an hour and a half to pass the reviewing stand, and Admiral Dewey stood erect with the President during that time.

Whenever Old Glory came by, which averaged once in five minutes, both men uncovered. One band played
"Home, Sweet Home." Dewey rubbed both eyes at once, utterly disregarding the effect upon his white gloves, and the crowd cheered that. When the trotting veterans of the civil war went by, the admiral remained uncovered.

When the parade ended, Dewey went to the house of Mrs. McLean. He said he was utterly exhausted, but happy.
Tomorrow the nation will welcome him in a larger and more imposing way.

HIS "HOME-COMING."

Such Enthusiasm Never Before Seen in the National Capital.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The homecoming of Admiral George Dewey, for henceforth the national capital is to be his home, was made the occasion for the greatest tribute ever paid by Washington to any individual. After the preliminary welcome in New York, it self unsurpassed in its kind, it remained for the highest and greatest in the official world to hold out the hand of greeting to the famous admiral and to join with the people who are to be his fellow-citizens, in bidding him welcome.

The citizens had made every preparation to make the occasion worthy of their hero. The decorations were elaborate. Pennsylvania avenue was one mass of colored bunting along the entire line of march from the station to the White House, and not content with this, few private citizens failed to make some display of colors on their residences. Unique designs in fairy lanterns dotted the horizon; great searchlights threw broad beams of bright light across the blue sky on a clear October evening, and the stately Capitol stood revealed in its queenly beauty in the powerful rays of many concentrated lights.

The same device was used effectively in the case of other public buildings which were within the range of vision of Admiral Dewey and the President as they reviewed the great throng of people that passed slowly along beneath the prow of the white Olympia, projecting in bold relief from the center of the stand erected just south of the Treasury building at the head of Pennsylvania avenue.

On the facade of the newly-completed government postoffice building flames forth two inscriptions set in electric pipes, the one reciting the famous journey of the President directing Dewey, then thousands of miles away in the Far East, to go forth to destroy the Spanish fleet, and the other setting out the famous admiral's direction to the lamented Gridley: "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley," which marked an epoch in the history of the United States.

Twelve thousand members of civic organizations paraded before him, besides tens of thousands of non-organized citizens, and in a roar of cannon, rockets and the blaze of red fire and the thunderous cheering of the populace and the warm greeting of the head of the nation, Dewey came to the national capital and to a welcome such as has not been known here hitherto.

The journey from New York had been one continuous ovation, limited in its intensity only by the density of population. The decorated special train which left the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry slip in Jersey City at 1:50 o'clock in the afternoon was fully in keeping with its distinguished passenger. It was made up of five cars, the Pennsylvania's prize special, the Atlanta, a dining car, a combination smoker and three parlor cars for the accommodation of the Washington Reception Committee. The special was given a clear track, and the run to Washington was made without a stop, except at Gray's Ferry on the outskirts of Philadelphia, where engines were changed, and a new train crew came aboard.

Almost immediately after going aboard the train, the admiral retired to his private car for luncheon, which was served for six, Admiral Dewey, his son, George; his brother and the latter's wife, Capt. Lambertson and Lieut. Brumby. Thenceforward the admiral lay down and tried to get a little sleep, but this was impossible, owing to the continuous ovation along the line.

It was said by the officials and trainmen that the ovation during the run from New York to Washington was the most remarkable demonstration that has ever taken place along the line. Every town turned out its full population, and every house and cross-roads settlement was turned inside out to see the flying special pass.

Admiral Dewey was particularly touched all along the line by the number of children who turned out to see him. All along the line, every train, freight and passenger, that passed the special, saluted it with a long-drawn blast of the whistle, and in all the larger towns where the flyer slowed down within the city limits, there was a continual roar of steam from factories, machine shops and the shifting engines and trains on the sidings.

The train, as it reached the line of the District of Columbia, stopped for a few minutes at the little station of Deanwood, while the Reception Committee went through the formality of presenting the nation's guest to the freedom of the District. The ceremony was performed by District Commissioner Wilson in the presence of the admiral's fleet captains, the military and naval members of the party and as many of their Reception Committee as could be crowded into the admiral's car.

John Addison Porter, secretary to the President, first extended President McKinley's greetings, to which the admiral returned his thanks very briefly.

"I want to thank you very much my friends," he said, "for this testimonial of your regard. It is true that as long as I live, and I hope to live a long time, I intend to live in Washington. I thank you again for this expression."

Then, dropping the tone of formality to which this had been uttered, he extended his hands and said heartily:
"Now, I want to see my friends.
Charlie, old boy, how are you?" and he turned to the crowd, shaking the hands of all who were within reach.
In a few minutes the admiral was in the brilliantly-lighted depot. The middle aisle of the station had been carpeted to the carriage entrance. The committeemen and the "fighting line" of the brilliantly-uniformed officers were tethered, all alighted, while A. L. Moses, the chairman of the Reception Committee, Theodore Noyes of the Evening Star, Commissioner Ross and Archibald Greenlee went into the admiral's car, and after a few words of formal greeting, brought him out. Taking the arm of Mr. Moses, he headed the procession down the station aisle, and the officers and committeemen fell in at the rear. It was a procession as brilliant as a diplomatic reception.

The throng about the railway station choked the streets for blocks away.
Troop M of the Third United States
Cavalry, under the command of Lieut.
Murtill, which was to escort the admiral to the Executive Mansion, had drawn up on the east side of Sixth street, facing the station, and the United States Marine Band had formed on their right. The first of the party to leave the station were the officers of citizens and army and navy officials, who had gone to New York to meet the famous admiral, and secondly followed by the admiral himself, and when he appeared to take his place in the procession.

Corporal Killed.

Maj. Price Asks for Gunboats to Support Him.

Enemy Retreats After Losing Colonel—Gen. Alejandrino and the Envoy Return to Angeles.
Gen. Otis's Terms.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, Oct. 3, 9 a.m.—
[By Manila Cable.] The Fourth Infantry Regiment, Maj. Price commanding, has had a series of encounters with the insurgents about Imus since Saturday. The natives were led, it is supposed, by a former mayor of Imus, and made a general attack upon the American lines from Imus to Bacoor. A captain and a corporal of the American forces were killed.
A Filipino colonel is known to have been killed.

Maj. Price requested Rear-Admiral Watson to send two gunboats to his support. The fighting began Saturday when Capt. Brown took the same battalion that distinguished itself at Perez Dasmarias and Lieut. Knabenush's scouts against a large force of insurgents on the Perez Dasmarias road, and a general engagement followed.

The Americans, being in the mud in the rice fields, kept up a fire an hour and a half, when reinforcements were sent to them until seven regiments were engaged. The insurgents retreated. During the engagement three Americans were wounded. The fighting yesterday began with an attack by the insurgents on a party repairing the telegraph line, one member of which was wounded.

Gen. Alejandrino and two other Filipino envoys who accompanied him returned to Angeles by special train.

Envoy's Setting Out.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, Oct. 2, 5:45 p.m.—
The Filipino envoys called on Maj.-Gen. Otis, today, and discussed matters with no result. Gen. Alejandrino said to a representative of the Associated Press that he had no instructions, except to deliver a letter which was rejected. He will return to Tarlac tomorrow.

An expedition composed of an armored flatboat, armed with two 3-pounders, with the gun-boats Helena, Petrel and Min-dora escorting it, proceeded yesterday to Orani for the purpose of bombarding that place, landing 200 marines and bluejackets and raising the wrecked gunboat Urdaneta. The gun-boats will approach to about two thousand seven hundred yards from Orani, and the flatboat will enter the river. The expedition will return tomorrow.

GEN. OTIS'S TERMS.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—A dispatch

[COAST RECORD.]
LIGHT OF THE LAW.SEEN ON TWO PROPOSITIONS RELATING TO FUNDS.

State Money of a School District Cannot Be Transferred to Los Angeles County, According to Constitution and Code.

Capt. Partridge of Co. B, Fifth Infantry, National Guard, not liable for Coia Placed in Insolvent San Jose Bank.

Layman Pleads Guilty to Assault. Meeting of Depositors of Wrecked San Jose Bank—Mining Engineers at Arbuckle.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Atty.-Gen. T. L. Ford has rendered an opinion on an issue arising out of the failure of the Union Savings Bank of San Jose, in reply to the request of Atty.-Gen. Seaman, who wishes to know if Capt. H. L. Partridge, Co. B, Fifth Infantry, National Guard, acted within the law in depositing $35.75 company funds in the said institution about the time of its failure, and whether he was liable for its loss. The Attorney General holds that Partridge is not liable for the money.

The District Attorney of Los Angeles county asked if any portion of the State funds of a school district can be legally transferred to the county fund of that district. Deputy Attorney-General Abbott replies that the provisions of the Constitution, as well as those of the Political Code, prohibit such a transfer, and Atty.-Gen. Ford concurs.

DALTON'S POLL-TAX COMMISSION.

State Controller Makes a Stipulation Pending Suit Thereon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—State Controller Colgan and Henry P. Dalton, Assessor of Alameda county, have entered into a stipulation to the effect that in the pending tax settlement with the Treasurer of Alameda county the item of poll taxes, which is the matter in dispute, can be entirely eliminated from the settlement without prejudice to either party to the suit.

The stipulation was filed in the County Clerk's office today, and under its provisions the Controller can proceed with the settlement with Alameda county, the poll tax receipts being held out until the matter now pending in the court is settled.

Assessor Dalton claims that under the County Government Act of 1897 he is entitled to 15 per cent. commission on the poll taxes collected by him, while the Controller contends that, as the same act provides him, in lieu of commissions, with two deputies to collect poll taxes, there is no extra compensation coming to him.

If Dalton wins his suit he will gain about $500 in commissions on taxes which cost him nothing to collect.

CALIFORNIA W.C.T.U.

State Convention of White Ribboners at Sacramento.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—The state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened in the Sixth-street Methodist Episcopal Church this afternoon, and will continue day and evening until Saturday. The state executive board held a short session before the regular programme was started. The appointments of committees was left to the president, Mrs. Sturtevant-Peet. A large picture of Frances Willard occupied a prominent place in the church.

Tonight's exercises opened with the singing of the state hymn, followed by prayer led by Mrs. A. B. Gore of Oakland. Mayor Land delivered an address of welcome to the delegates and congratulated them on the good work being done by the union. On behalf of the clergy, Rev. S. J. Carroll welcomed the delegates, and Europe, for that matter, of the business community. Addresses were also made by Mrs. Maggie Beatty-Willis and Mrs. Lizzie Ross Miller.

PRESIDENT WHEELER'S AIM.

Our State University Should Be First in Its Class.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler will take official charge of the University of California Monday, though he will not be formally installed until October 25. He said in an interview that while he contemplates many changes, he will not make them at once, nor will he interfere with the present faculty.

"However," he added, "when vacancies occur, as they frequently do, it will be my aim to fill them with the very best material available in the United States, or Europe, for that matter. I believe this is what the people of California want. They will not be satisfied with second-class material, and I shall endeavor to secure the best for the very best."

"In the East this State university is recognized as one of the eight great institutions of its kind in the United States, but we want to make it first among the eight if possible." President Wheeler is a strong believer in open-air athletics, which he proposes to foster.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Twelve Decisions Handed Down Upholding Lower Courts.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals convened in the Federal building today. Supreme Court Justice McKenna, who recently arrived here from Washington, presided. Judges Ross, Morrow and Hawley were also present. The judges rendered twelve decisions, in all of which they upheld the decrees of the lower courts.

In the cases of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, D. O. Mills and Homer S. King, trustees, the Central Trust Company of New York, defendants and appellants, vs. the United States, plaintiffs, and appellants, vs. the Southern Pacific, etc., the decree of the Circuit Court was affirmed.

The case was one in which the government sought to recover certain railroad lands between the Needles and San Buenaventura. The railroad company will retain possession of the land.

In the case of the Savings and Loan Society, Clarence B. Burr, administrator of the estate of Edward Burr, A. N. Brown, George Kearns, vs. George S. Davidson et al., to redeem 13,000 acres of land in Contra Costa county, known as Los Mochanos ranch, the decree of the lower court was affirmed, with costs.

The decision of the lower court in the case of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York against Beattie P. Sears, Walter B. Allen, Fine Cohen and George E. Hill was affirmed. The Mutual company was sued for $39,000, the amount of life insurance policies which it was claimed had lapsed. The plaintiffs won their suits and the insurance company has again been defeated in court.

Decisions were also upheld in the following cases: George W. Reed vs. John A. Stanley, Ella C. Slavens vs. the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, Western Gas Construction Company vs. J. B. Danner, John F. Myers vs. Samuel Sternheim of Wagonheim, Sternheim & Co.; the Tyler Mining Company vs. the Last Chance Mining Company. The court will meet again tomorrow.

MINING ENGINEERS.

Delegates Banqueted and Shown the Wonders of Placer County.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] AUBURN, Oct. 2.—The mining engineers were received here today by Mayor Morgan, a brass band and committee of citizens. They were banqueted at the Freeman Hotel. F. P. Tuttle delivered the address of welcome.

During their trip to Placer county they visited the Polar Star hydraulic mine at Dutch Flat, where they saw a mammoth giant in operation as it used to be before the hydraulickers were enjoined. Some of them also visited the famous Hidden Treasure mine, the largest in the world, operating as it does nine miles of tunnel. The engineers were accompanied through Placer by Hon. T. H. Power, president of the county association, and W. R. Monahan. They left here for Sacramento, where they will be banqueted and thence to proceed to Oroville.

VISIT SACRAMENTO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—The American Institute of Mining Engineers arrived here at 4 o'clock p.m. today and were received by a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, who provided for their entertainment until they left at 10 o'clock p.m.

They were driven to the Crocker Art Gallery, where Mayor Land made a speech of welcome. After hurriedly viewing the pictures, they were driven to Sutter's Fort. There their pictures were taken and they saw the relics of pioneer days.

John Seeley of Huntington county, N. J., made a speech, saying that Marshall, discoverer of gold, was from his county, and that Gen. Sherman pronounced the first nugget discovered something other than gold. Gen. W. T. Sherman, who was then a young assayer, made the first assay of the Marshall nugget.

At 8 o'clock p.m. the visitors went to the Capitol, where they called on Gov. Gage and Secretary of State Curry. They were received by the Citizens Committee at the library.

SEVEN MEN DROWNED.

Steamer White Cloud Founders Off China Coast.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] VICTORIA (B. C.), Oct. 2.—The steamer Olympia brings news of the loss of the steamer White Cloud, a paddle steamer which was proceeding from Hongkong to Manila under an American charter. The vessel foundered about ninety miles from Hongkong, and seven men were drowned.

The crew had just time enough to get away from the steamer when she foundered. The mate's boat, containing six beside himself, was drawn into the vortex of the sinking vessel and dragged down with her. The captain's boat, containing six people, was picked up by a Chinese junk and taken to Shanghai. The disaster is said to have been due to the ravages of the white sea, which the vessel's seams opened up and she simply collapsed. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

SERIOUS FREIGHT WRECK.

Misplaced Switch Causes Much Destruction at Crow's Landing.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] CROW'S LANDING, Oct. 2.—A freight wreck occurred at Crow's Landing today. The north-bound freight ran into a string of freight cars on a siding, owing to a misplaced switch. Eleven freight cars were burned, including one carload of sheep, one car of whisky, one oil tank car and eight cars of fruit. The engineer and firemen were slightly hurt.

The south-bound train was too long for the siding, and in cutting and switching the engine and train ran upon another siding the brakeman neglected to close the switch. The engine of the north-bound freight is a complete wreck. A large warehouse belonging to Simon Newman, was completely destroyed. It is nearly full of wheat, covered by insurance. Trains are running on a temporary track around the wreck.

MORENO AND SOUTHERN.

New Railroad to Be Built from the Arizona Copper District.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] PHOENIX (Ariz.), Oct. 2.—The articles of the Moreno and Southern Railroad were filed here today, by James Douglas, William E. Dodge, Cleveland H. Dodge and other members of Phelps, Dodge & Co. of New York, owners of the Copper Queen mine at Bisbee, the Detroit mine at Morenci and mining properties in other parts of Arizona.

The road will connect with the Arizona and New Mexico road at Guthrie. It will be only twenty miles long, and it shows an outlet for ore, which has hitherto had none except by "baby gauge" of the Arizona Copper Company, running down Chase Creek and on to Clifton. The road could be reached only by one of the longest and steepest inclines in the United States.

WRECKED SAVINGS BANK.

Meeting of Depositors and Shareholders at San Jose.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SAN JOSE, Oct. 2.—James W. Rea, president of the board of directors of the wrecked Union Savings Bank, which is winding up its affairs, has called a joint meeting of depositors and shareholders for 10 a.m. October 10. At that time he will submit his semi-annual report.

Affairs have not been moving along entirely satisfactorily to the depositors. They are charging that the monthly expenses of $750 for regular salaries, are entirely too high. They charge that the board is not harmonious, and that some big men in the bank are being sued while others are not. Rea's report is expected to contain matters of much interest. So far only one dividend of 5 per cent. has been paid the depositors.

LAYMAN SENTENCED.

Evaded Murder Charge by Pleading Guilty to Assault.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SANTA ROSA, Oct. 2.—In Judge Burnett's court today, George W. Layman of Healdsburg, pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon and was sentenced to two years in prison at Folsom.

Layman was tracked to the Arkansas line on the border of the Indian Territory by Sheriff Grace, and after his arrest was brought back here for the alleged killing of Dr. Kartell of Healdsburg. He was held for trial for assault and intent to commit murder, to which he afterward entered a plea of "not guilty."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RATES.

They Will Be Raised on Twenty-two Commodities Thursday.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—It is stated that the Southern Pacific will Thursday, announce an increase of rates on twenty-two commodities from 45 to 60 cents per 100 pounds, to 75 cents, on points in California to Houston, Galveston, New Orleans, New York and Boston.

Goods affected are the following: Antimony and antimony ore, asphaltum and bituminous rock, beans, canals, chips, copper, cement, glue, hay, hemp, insulator, creosote, lumber, ore, manganese, rubber, sugar, borax, canned salmon, rubber junk, canned goods, junk, saponified red oil, hair, cattle, blue vitriol, California wine.

ALASKAN VOLCANOS.

At Least Three are Active North of Cook's Inlet.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] TACOMA (Wash.), Oct. 2.—Harry Lee of Chicago has returned from an exploring trip along the southern and western coasts of Alaska, where he has gathered nearly a complete collection of Alaskan animals and birds. He brings news that at least three volcanoes have been in eruption this summer in Western Alaska, and are still supposed to be active. These are the volcanoes on Unga Island, and others known to the natives as Pavlov and Accutan. The latter volcanoes are located west of Mt. St. Elias and north of Cook's Inlet.

LIGHTNING'S FREAKS.

Buildings at Astoria Destroyed and No One Injured.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] ASTORIA (Or.), Oct. 2.—News was brought to this city tonight of the almost total destruction last evening of North Beach, Wash., life-saving station by lightning. The entire upper story of the building, the quarters of the crew and a dwelling alongside of the building occupied by one of the crew was badly shattered. No one was injured.

VALLEY ROAD BONDS.

Hellman Syndicate Makes Its Last Payment Thereon in Cash.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The Hellman syndicate, which two years ago purchased $6,000,000 of bonds of the Valley Railroad, has made its last payment in cash for the securities. The Santa Fe Company, which now owns the road, will advance the amount necessary for its completion.

THE PRESIDENT'S BROTHER.

Abner McKinley Reaches Tacoma and Sees Senator Foster.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] TACOMA (Wash.), Oct. 2.—Abner McKinley, brother of the President, arrived here today. It is believed his visit is directly connected with growing commercial enterprise, which will follow the development of trade with the Philippines. He was escorted an hour with Senator Foster, shortly after his arrival.

Hatching of Salmon Eggs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Superintendent Lambson of the United States Fish Commission, station on McCloud River, at Bald, reports that the collection of salmon eggs from the run closed last week with a total take of 6,000,000 eggs, and that he had received instructions from the department at Washington to deliver 4,000,000 of these eggs to the State commission. One million at the El River hatchery in Humboldt county and liberated in El River, and 3,000,000 will be hatched at the Sisson station and liberated in the Sacramento River.

Portuguese Union's Grand Council.

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 2.—The Grand Council of the Portuguese Union met here today in annual session, Supreme President Braga presiding. The Grand Secretary reported a total membership of 3100 members, a gain of 200 during the year. These are divided among forty sub-committees.

Treasurer's report showed that, during the past year, the expenditures amounted to $54,315, the sum now in the treasury being $29,740. He will be elected tomorrow. The next Grand Council will probably meet in Oakland.

Visalia Orchards Do Finely.

VISALIA, Oct. 2.—I. H. Thomas, Horticultural Commissioner of Visalia district, has made his report to the Board of Supervisors for August and September. Thomas says he finds that the orchards have broken all previous records for crops, and that about one-fourth more fruit was raised than was anticipated by the most sanguine orchardists.

Books for Stanford University.

STANFORD, Oct. 2.—The department of political science received today, through the kindness of Hon. James D. Phelan, Mayor of San Francisco, a valuable library on political science and administration, consisting of about five hundred volumes.

State Grange Meeting.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 2.—The Board of Trade, Farmers' Club and San Jose Grange have each appointed committees to prepare for the meeting of the State Horticultural Society, which convenes here December 6 to 8, inclusive. A large attendance is anticipated.

Mines Waiting for Rain.

ANGELS CAMP, Oct. 2.—The Utica mine and mills are shutting down on account of the fact that the water and the installing of machinery to operate the mines by electricity in the future. The shut-down will continue until after the rains commence.

Aged Kanaka Dead.

OAKLAND, Oct. 2.—Henry Parker, a Kanaka, believed to have been over 100 years old, died at the Industrial Home for Adult Blind, of which he was an inmate. He came to California from the Hawaiian Islands fifty years ago, and was an old man then.

Sanity Called in Question.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 2.—Frank Faustino, who, some weeks ago, shot and killed Nicholas Welch, is being tried today. The jury will first pass on his sanity, and there is much to show that he is totally insane. He refuses to talk, eats but little, is dirty and a skeleton.

Mckenzie's Trial Postponed.

SUISUN, Oct. 2.—Owing to the death of George S. McKenzie's wife, his trial, which was to be resumed tomorrow, has been postponed until Monday, October 3.

FAMOUS BOUNDARY.

ANGLO-VENEZUELAN COMMISSION REACHES A DECISION.

Award Will Be Read Today in the Presence of the Representatives of Great Britain and Venezuela.

That the Former Has Won.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] PARIS, Oct. 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Anglo-Venezuelan Commission has risen after concluding its deliberations. The award will be read tomorrow in the presence of the representatives of Great Britain and Venezuela. The secretaries are now writing out the award, and have so notified Messrs. Buchanan and Rojas.

BRITISH VICTORY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] PARIS, Oct. 2, 8:15 p.m.—It is said on good authority that the award will be a decided victory for Great Britain.

Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Brewer will start for London Wednesday, and will sail for New York on the White Star line steamer Majestic October 11.

Former President Benjamin Harrison will go to Berlin Wednesday. From there he will go to The Hague, Brussels and London, where he will spend a few days prior to sailing for the United States, October 18.

DOUBTS THE COURT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] PARIS, Oct. 2.—After the court had risen, a representative of the Associated Press called on former President Harrison, who professed ignorance as to how the award would be made. He did not seem anxious regarding the subject.

H. Vignaud, secretary of the American Union on Unga Island, where President Harrison at the same time, said the latter's argument was very much appreciated by the court. To this the court replied: "We did our best in what I know is a right cause, but in an arbitration tribunal such as this, it is a toss-up. It does not resemble an ordinary tribunal, to the judges of which it is absolutely immaterial which party wins. I hold that the court is not bound to make a permanent arbitration court, as I did when questioned on the subject, and not men, specially appointed for a given object."

PAN-PRESBYTERIAN ALLIANCE.

Preacher Criticizes the Question Considered by the Council.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—A feature of the discussion today of the delay in the place of holding the next council of the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance, was the attack made by the Rev. H. A. McDougall, editor of the Westminster of Toronto, Can., upon the programme of the present council. He said that the next might well be postponed for ten years.

"The stale, flat and unprofitable questions with which this council has seemed concerned," said he, "have been discussed at every council, and long ago lost every particle of interest for thoughtful and intelligent men. If we are to face another lean and barren programme, I should not wonder if the date for the council ten years hence."

The alliance ratified the action of the committee in selecting Liverpool, Eng., as the site of the next council at the time of the next convention.

The interest in the first session today was the discussion of the restoration of two papers read by the Rev. J. W. Beardslee of Holland, Mich., on "Recent Apologetic Methods and Tendencies," and the other by the Rev. Principal Stewart of St. Andrew's, Scotland, on "The Bible and Recent Archaeological Discoveries." The discussion was participated in by some of the ablest men present, and developed into an attack upon the methods of the exposition of the so-called "Higher Criticism."

Hon. Samuel Smith, a member of the British Parliament, said that the elimination of the divinity of Christ would leave to Christianity only a few worthless remnants, upon which it would be impossible to build a religion of any system. It ought to be well understood, he thought, that the higher criticism was only for atheism and sacerdotalism.

Rev. Dr. Gerhardt of Lancaster, Pa., declared that the Bible, being a unique book, could not be fitted to discern its quality, only those who possessed spiritual insight were capable of seeing proper light upon it.

Dr. Henry McManis, president of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, declared that because a man was an expert in science it did not follow that he was an expert in that spiritual science, and he was a correct interpretation of the Bible.

WOMEN FIGHT FIRE.

Fire Practically Destroys the Little Town of Stratford, Mo.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 2.—The little town of Stratford, ten miles east of here, was practically destroyed by a fire Sunday morning. Nearly all the male population was in Springfield, attending a meeting of the Woodmen, and the women had to fight the fire alone. Drought had made water scarce and the town was very dry.

At times every building in the city would be afire. Women saved several residences by the use of wet blankets. The loss of property was considerable, loss $20,000, was the heaviest loss. The insurance is light.

Zinc Producers Close Down.

JOPLIN (Mo.), Oct. 2.—Ninety per cent. of the zinc producers in this district have shut down in compliance with an order from the Missouri and Kansas Zinc Producers' Association, an effort to force the smelters to pay a schedule of prices laid down by the association a few weeks since, and which the smelters have thus far refused to accede to. At Webb City alone 1500 miners will be thrown out of work temporarily.

St. Paul Plumbers on Strike.

ST. PAUL (Minn.), Oct. 2.—Practically all the plumbers in this city struck today, closing the shops and suspending work on many buildings. They claim that non-union men have been employed and the strike was ordered because their protest was unheeded.

IT HAPPENED IN A DRUG STORE AT ONTARIO, N. Y.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a 25-cent bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid."

In the course of a day or two the lady came back to my store in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a 50-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy. It is not so much what newspapers say as what friend says to friend that has made this remedy so popular. I do not know throughout the United States, but in many foreign countries.—[Ad.]

A COFFEE EXPERIMENT.

Not Likely to be Repeated.

"The work of a newspaper correspondent involves constant thought and study, with consequent brain and nerve weariness. It may interest you to know of my experience with coffee."

"Some years ago I was compelled to give it up and after a few years abstinence started it up again, at breakfast only. Within a few weeks I was compelled to abandon it, as I became nearly paralyzed."

"During the forenoon of each day my arms and wrists were so numb that I could use them with difficulty. Alarming symptoms began to develop which my physician informed me were the forerunners of apoplexy. Coffee was therefore forewarned. Milk, of which I was very fond, made me intolerably drowsy and stupid."

"About two years ago my attention was called to Postum Cereal Food Coffee, and a trial was made, believing that if it proved half as valuable as claimed it would be of great advantage to me. On the first trial it tasted rather helpful to our strong-coffee-loving family, but a little freer use of Postum and longer boiling produced a delicious drink and within a short time the members of the family use all, had become ardent advocates of Postum Food Coffee."

"In my own case it has worked wonders. I work more constantly than ever, but my general health is better than at any time in my life, and the symptoms of nervous trouble have wholly disappeared. About eight months ago I made one more trial of coffee, reducing it to nearly half milk. The experiment lasted four or five days and is not likely to be repeated. The nervous suffering that followed was indescribable and I did not recover from its effects for nearly two weeks."

"Nearly all of our neighbors are now using Postum Food Coffee and it is used almost exclusively by the large sanitarium in our city. A Maynard Barbour, Bailey Block, Helena, Mont."

Postum is sold by all first-class grocers, and made by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., at their factory, Battle Creek, Mich.

Retiring From Business.

The $65 Set Today at $50.

AND if not sold today it will be reduced $5.00 more tomorrow—100 pieces of the very finest Haviland & Co. China in beautiful decorations.

SHAMROCK SMALLER.

COLUMBIA MUST GIVE HER TIME ALLOWANCE.

Cup Defender and Challenger Measured Yesterday by Hyslop-Yankee Boat Takes on Plumber to Make Her Balance.

Lord Charles Beresford Thinks the American Boat Makes Prettier Showing—Chevalier Martino Thinks Green Will Win.

Reit Winning at London—Prince's Cricketers—Boston Wins Two Games—Other Eastern Ball Scores—Eastern Races.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The first round of the international series between the American yacht Columbia and the British challenger Shamrock will be sailed tomorrow, weather permitting, over a course fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return, on Sandy Hook. The start is to be made at 11 o'clock, from Sandy Hook lightship, unless a postponement is ordered. But no race of the series is to be started later than 12:30 p.m.

One of the greatest surprises for yachtsmen since the arrival of the Shamrock in these waters was the announcement officially made at the New York Yacht Club that the Columbia would have to allow the Shamrock 6.31 seconds on a thirty-mile course. It was generally supposed by yachtsmen who have seen both yachts under sail, and in the dry dock that the Shamrock, by reason of her greater sail spread and apparently larger hull, would have to give the Columbia something like a minute time allowance over the thirty-mile course which they are to sail. It appears, however, that Designer Fife, while giving the Shamrock a larger sail plan than the Columbia, has at the same time so constructed her hull as to give her great freedom, less displacement, and consequently a shorter water line by almost two feet.

At 4 o'clock, Sir Thomas Lipton and his party left the yacht, the caisson was swung open and the Shamrock, with house, topmast, and rigging, was towed away from the navy yard by a tug. She arrived and made fast to her moorings in Sandy Hook Bay at 6:30 p.m., receiving salutes as she passed down East River and the upper bay from almost every passing steamer. Just before leaving the navy yard for his steam yacht Erin, Sir Thomas Lipton called his captains, Hogarth and Wringe, and gave them final instructions about the preparations for tomorrow's event, which means much to him and to them. He had evidently gathered from what he had seen and heard while the yacht was being measured that she certainly would not have to give the Columbia any time allowance, and he was correspondingly cheerful when he came to take leave of his two skippers.

The weather indications, according to the special forecast sent out from Washington, are that the wind will be fresh from the northeast. If so, the yachts will start from Sandy Hook lightship and run almost directly before the wind down the Jersey coast to a point just beyond Long Branch.

According to a dispatch received from Monmouth Beach, N. J., the start at 10 o'clock tonight, there will be quite a heavy sea off Sandy Hook tomorrow, unless the wind moderates or shifts to some other quarter.

THE MEASUREMENTS.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The cup-defender Columbia was measured today by John Hyslop, official measurer of the New York Yacht Club, at the Brooklyn navy yard, and her waterline was found to be 105 ft. 6 in. in length, the same as the Defender's. In fact, the boom that the latter boat has been using is the Columbia's spare spar. Hyslop was assisted in his work by Designer Nat Herreshoff and Capt. Charles Barr, while J. Cornell of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club represented Sir Thomas Lipton.

The forward overhang measurements were obtained by hanging a plumb line from the top of the stern, and with a long wooden rod taking the distance to the surface of the water between the plumb and a waterline mark made on the bow of the boat. The stern overhang measurement was obtained in a similar way. When Hyslop informed Iselin and Herreshoff of the Columbia's waterline length, it was evident that the Columbia was shorter than they cared to have the yacht sail on, and 1700 pounds of pig lead was placed in the hold of the boat, Leeds explaining that this weight was to replace the damage taken out.

Hyslop again measured the forward and aft overhangs, and getting the length over all, informed the party on the Columbia that her waterline length was a fraction over 85 ft. 8 in. Then with a stencil Hyslop made a V-shaped mark on the waterline, and the board and port sides of the boat, abreast of the companionway, showing the point at which the water came on the hull. This was evidently done to avoid any possible question as to increasing ballast in the future. Among the things that Hyslop was doing was taking the measurements of the Shamrock. Rear-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, Arnold Morley, Sir Henry Burdett and Chevalier Martino were present.

Lord Charles Beresford looked the Columbia over with a critical eye, and said in comparison of the cup-defender that the American boat was much more symmetrical and graceful in appearance. He believed, however, that this was due to the white paint with which the top sides are covered, and went on to say that in his opinion the green paint on the Shamrock made her look bulkier than she really was, and that if they were painted white she would look fully as graceful as the Columbia.

Chevalier Martino said that according to his eye, the Columbia was the better looking boat of the two from an artistic standpoint, but he did not think he would change his opinion about the English boat which was the fastest of the two.

Sir Thomas Lipton was introduced to Lieut. Tobin, the inventor of the metal known as "Tobin bronze," with which the Columbia is plated. They mutually complimented each other on the looks of the bronze on each boat. Lieut. Tobin stated to the Associated Press reporter that he presumed the manganese bronze of the Shamrock was composed of practically the same material as that used in his invention, or else the metal workers would not have been able to shape the metal for the frames.

Capt. Hank Huff was also at the navy yard. He said he expected to see the Columbia win, and when asked about the story that he had discovered the hull of the Shamrock to be out of plumb, he was still willing to back up the statement.

Measurer Hyslop stated unofficially that the Shamrock was the smaller boat of the two. Later it was said that Herbert Leeds, that she was eight inches shorter on the waterline than the Columbia.

AMERICA AFOAT.
ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Columbia-Shamrock races will be witnessed by a throng vastly larger than that which has attended previous contests for the famous cup, and yet the racers will have a clear ground, owing to Federal supervision of the courses. Yachtsmen are coming from all parts of the United States. The fleet of private pleasure yachts now in these waters is larger than ever before known, and nearly every steam yacht in the American list is now anchored in the vicinity of New York, and pretty much all of American society that is not afraid of seasickness will be afloat tomorrow.

An analysis of the weather conditions during the past twenty years during the yacht-racing period for the America's cup, shows that the weather is most likely to favor the Columbia. Indeed, in the past few series, nothing like half a gale has been experienced on any of the days.

Both the Columbia and the Shamrock were dry docked some days ago, thoroughly scraped and cleaned, and put in the best condition for the contest. They will be measured today by Official Measurer Hyslop of the New York Yacht Club. One of the conditions of the recent cup is that the yacht that challenges shall cross the ocean or come from whatever country in which she is built on her own bottom. If the Columbia is the victor it is thought it will be many years before another try is made for it. If the Shamrock wins there will be a challenge for it immediately, and the yachtsmen of this country will send over to England a yacht to bring back the cup as soon as one can be built and a match arranged.

[A. F. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Since the Columbia, and the Shamrock were launched the most serious of their mishaps fell to the Columbia's lot, when in the New York Yacht Club's annual cruise of Newport, she had her steel mast broken, when far ahead of the old Defender. The Shamrock has been aground in these waters, just escaped collision twice, and has been the victim of numerous small accidents, but she is now in the most perfect condition, as is her rival, Columbia. Both yachts are now in the docks in Brooklyn, ready for the battle, which is to begin within a few hours.

Both boats have been well tried out, and they have been found wanting. The Britisher had an insignificant brush or two with the old-timer Britannia on the other side, and beat her by many minutes when the effort, an inadequate test of her speed. On this side she has been out on the outer bay a number of times during the past six weeks, and on occasions has shown marvelous speed and wonderful capabilities.

She has shown herself to be essentially a rough-weather boat, standing up stiffly in the strongest kind of breeze, and cutting through the water in a marvelously smooth manner. In lighter weather, the Shamrock has not had much testimony beyond the ordinary trials which permitted Designer Fife and Sailmaker Ratsey to study her weaknesses and improve her rig. Since her first trials, the Shamrock has had a set of sails, much larger in area than the first, and suiting her better.

The Columbia has had many more trials than the Shamrock, and probably her trials have been better. They certainly could not have been more satisfactory. She has been pitted half a dozen times against the old cup defender, and has won in every case. Her trials took place off Newport, and so decisive were her victories during the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club that it was deemed unnecessary immediately after to further test her qualities.

However, in order to give her a more thorough trial, races with the Defender were arranged, and with some improvement that had been made, the Columbia won more marked triumphs. Some of her victories over the Defender are as follows: August 8, thirty-mile course, light weather, won by 4m. 18.

August 10, heavy sea, strong breeze, thirty-seven-mile course, won by 1m. 36c.
August 15, fair breeze, triangular course, twenty-one miles, won by 8m.
Off Newport, all kinds of weather, thirty-mile course, won by 6m. 48c.
Off Newport, triangular course, ten miles to the leg, in a wholesome breeze, won by 10m.

The Shamrock was successful in all but seven real trials. The Columbia has had an average of three or four a week since the latter part of the summer. The Columbia has had the Defender constantly with her, and the Defender has been in charge of a crew that drove her to the last inch of speed. The trials through which these two yachts passed were genuine races. The Columbia and her crew were thoroughly well equipped racing outfit, and Capt. Charles Barr, who will be at the wheel, is a veteran of the Shamrock's crew number more than that of the Defender. Capt. Archie Hogarth and Wringe will have the handling of the Britisher.

Comparing the merits of the boats as they have sailed, it is estimated, since the start of the season, that the Shamrock can stand up better in a strong blow than the Columbia. Many believe that she will be the better boat in a gale, but it is not so certain that a gale will prevail on any of the racing days. According to the judgment of those who have watched the two yachts in such trials as they have had, the Columbia has shown much more speed in winds of twelve knots an hour than under, and even in the supporters of the Shamrock confess that should light winds prevail, their favorite will have the best of the contest. They concede this by saying that they hope for stiff breezes.

In addition to her fine qualities in light air, the Columbia has shown herself most satisfactory in her windward work, and it is worth noting that she was designed especially for this kind of work.

C. Oliver Iselin and yachting party, which included Capt. Barr of the Columbia, sailed down to the navy yard this afternoon in the St. Michael. The St. Michael have to in Wallabout Basin and Mrs. Iselin and Capt. Barr went ashore to the launch, they were met by Lieut. Mulligan of the navy yard and Naval Constructor Francis T. Bowles, who walked up to the big dry dock in which the graceful cup defender was resting on the keel blocks. She looked like a boat big in the big wooden basin, the object of which was the mighty battleship Kearsarge.

Iselin and the two naval officers went over the Columbia and she was carefully measured with tape. Several workmen were busy all afternoon making her ready for the official measurer. The appearance of the yacht, he said, was very much pleased with the appearance of the yacht. He and Capt. Barr spent an hour in the navy yard and then sailed down to Erie basin to take a glance at the Shamrock.

Crowds gathered early at Erie basin to get a glimpse of the Shamrock. They were not so early in getting around, however, as was the challenging yacht's crew. The crew, long before 7 o'clock, had completed painting and polishing the under body of the yacht, and she is now in perfect condition for Tuesday's race.

To obviate annoyance from curious sightseers, sufficient water to cover the lead portions of the keel was easily let

The Death Sentence.

The wretched prisoner who listens to the reading of his death warrant is not more surely doomed than the man who is threatened with death by a disease of the lungs. The child that is born with a shallow, narrow chest; the youth who daily crouches over an office desk; the mechanic who toils in an atmosphere of dust, and the woman whose household duties constantly restrict her to the close, heated atmosphere of her home, all live under the blighting shadow of consumption. There is but one sure protection against this wholesale murderer of men—sound healthy body; pure, rich, red blood; and clean, clear breathing organs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes a man hungry, and really hungry men are usually healthy. But that isn't the whole tale—you may fill your stomach with food, and if the grate is clogged with clinkers and the chimney is choked with soot, you will have no fire. The Golden Medical Discovery is that life-giving element of the food, the blood, and that new, healthy tissues are built up in the breathing organs. It prevents consumption by curing all the abnormal conditions which, if neglected lead up to consumption.

Mrs. Josie E. Clark, of Enterprise, Shelby Co., Mo., writes: "I had despaired of ever getting well. I had been in bad health for twelve years. Had aches all through me, numb hands, cold feet, and everything I ate distressed me; bowels constipated, was very nervous, depressed, and despondent. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and my health is now good." Constipation disappears while you sleep when you take Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

VERY LITTLE BETTING.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—There was very little betting on the yacht races to-night around the hotels. In fact, the element which usually has money for the yacht races was out of the opinion that the betting interest this year is below the average. It is thought to-night, however, that it will pick up tomorrow's race when the men with money to put up "get a line on the boats."

The little money in sight tonight was all Columbia money. Hardly a man could be found to champion the visitor.

seat in the carriage, the crowd went almost wild with excitement. The Marine Band gave the four flourishes which naval etiquette requires, and then played "Under the Double Eagle" by Wagner, which is said to be a special favorite with the admiral, and which, at his request, the Olympia's band played as the fleet sailed out of the harbor of Hongkong to give battle to the Spaniards at Manila and again when the famous ship started on her homeward voyage.

The carriage which the admiral occupied with Mr. Moses in going from the station to the White House was strikingly handsome, and was drawn by four spirited bays ridden by postillions. As he took his seat, the cavalry troops at the word of command swung out into the street in front, and, wheeling to the left, began the march up historic Pennsylvania avenue.

The entire escort being mounted, the party proceeded rapidly toward the White House, the cavalry at a trot, with the admiral and his immediate attendants closely following. There were scattered volleys of cheers, but the party moved so quickly that it was past the crowd before it realized that Dewey had gone by.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE. As the admiral's carriage swung around the Treasury building toward the White House, a brilliant spectacle was spread out before him. To the right, Lafayette Square was ablaze with electric lights, the great trees and the buildings sparkling with many-hued lights, while in the midst shone out in huge electric letters.

"WELCOME, ADMIRAL." The Navy Department beyond was ablaze with lights, as were the White House grounds. A mighty roar went up from the crowd as the admiral alighted at the portico of the Executive Mansion.

As he stepped from the carriage, Col. Bingham, representing the President, stepped forward to escort him to the East Room, where Secretary Long, Assistant Secretary Allen and a brilliant assemblage of naval officials were ready to extend to him the greetings of the navy. Secretary Long was at the door, and as the admiral stepped out, Secretary grasped his hand, and, with enthusiasm, said:

"Admiral, welcome you home. This is the Navy Department for the moment, and your associates of the navy are assembled here to give you a hearty greeting."

"Thank you, thank you," responded Admiral Dewey, who exchanged a few words of greeting with the Secretary, and then with Mr. Allen and the other officials. These included Rear-Admirals Crowninshield, O'Neil, Melville, Van Rensselaer, Hichborn, Bradford and Sampson, Maj. Gen. Miles, Adm. Gen. Corbin, Gen. Haywood, commanding the marine corps; Capt. Lemley, Judge-Advocate-General of the navy, and many others. There was a little need of introduction, as Admiral Dewey had served alongside most of these officials.

There was no formality, and after the first greetings, Secretary Long invited the admiral to accompany him to the President's library, where the President and the members of the Cabinet were awaiting him. Arm in arm, Secretary Long and the admiral proceeded by the elevator to the upper floor of the mansion. The members of the Cabinet had assembled in the Cabinet room, while the President was alone in the library adjoining. As Secretary Long entered with the admiral, the President came forward to greet the famous sailor, and, grasping his hand, wished him a hearty welcome.

The admiral acknowledged the cordial sentiments expressed by the President, and then asked as to the health of Mrs. McKinley, saying he had heard with great regret that she had not been well. In reply, the President suggested that the admiral meet Mrs. McKinley. They stepped out to the corridor, where Mrs. McKinley makes a sitting-room, and here found her with some of her lady friends. The admiral was presented, and received from Mrs. McKinley a warm welcome. When Admiral Dewey left the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to go to Jersey City, the stoops and windowsills and railings of all the houses between the end of the hotel on Thirty-third street and Fifth avenue were filled with people, anxious to catch a glimpse of him. The admiral extended, each side of the street being filled with people. Members of the committee which had personally escorted Admiral Dewey through the two days' celebration assembled shortly before 12 o'clock. They were St. Clair McKelway, Richard Croker, ex-Mayor of New York, William Adoo, W. W. Foster and James Spellman. Senator Dewey was missing. He was to go to Washington, however, on a special train during the afternoon and be present at the ceremonies there.

The committee went up to Admiral Dewey's room with some of the members of the Washington committee which is to escort the admiral to the capital. These were Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont, Commander Baird and John J. Edson. McKelway, who headed the committee of New Yorkers, went through no formality simply saying: "Gentlemen, here is the admiral."

Admiral Dewey bowed, and when asked if he was ready to go, he said he was, and he and Mr. Edson started downstairs and took carriages. His son, George Dewey, Jr., and the admiral came out of the hotel together. Mr. Edson handed the admiral into his carriage. The crowd immediately recognized the admiral, who was in civilian clothing, and a great cheer went up. Admiral Dewey bowed his acknowledgments.

George Dewey, Jr., got into the carriage, and then Mr. Edson entered. Sallor Nygard of the Olympia was on the seat with the driver. The police cleared the middle of the street, and the carriage started off. Then there was renewed cheering and waving of handkerchiefs and flags, and the admiral took off his hat and smiled. Then the carriage stopped, as Mr. Edson told the driver to wait for the other carriages.

The crowd tried to break through the lines when the carriage was stopped, but the police managed to force them back again. The cheering was continuous. The first carriage after that of Admiral Dewey contained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewey, and Senator Proctor. The second, Capt. Coghan and Mrs. Coghan and Commander Baird; the third, Capt. and Mrs. Lamberton; the fourth, Lieut. Brumby and Ensign Caldwell; and the fifth the two Chinese servants.

All the way down the avenue to Twenty-fifth street the admiral's arrival was awaited by a huge crowd. His carriage came along the people cheered him again and again, the admiral acknowledging the greetings by raising his hat and bowing. The carriages drove down Twenty-fifth street to the river, where the admiral was to board the navy yard tug Nina.

AT THE DOCK. NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—When Admiral Dewey's carriage reached the Pennsylvania dock a great cheer went up, and the admiral lifted his hat and bowed to the right and left. The carriage passed beyond the crowd. Gen. Miles hurried to the door of the carriage, pushing the police aside at the same time unbuttoning his overcoat and displaying his yellow sash and full-dress uniform.

"How are you, general?" said the admiral, as he stepped out. Then he was helped on board by two blue jackets, who steadied the gangplank, the remainder of the party following. The admiral shook hands with everybody, including his brother Charles, who has seen him very little since he returned home. To nearly every one he extended uniform, and all of the marchers carried flaming red torches.

The letter carriers had all of the local postal cars in line, ablaze with electric light, spelling words of welcome to Dewey. One of their features was a gigantic illuminated envelope, addressed to "Admiral George Dewey, Manila," and marked, "Returned to Washington."

The German societies had a most creditable representation, and altogether the civic parade was a worthy one. As the rear of the column went by the public fell in behind, and passed before the reviewing stand for an hour to get a glimpse of their hero.

The crowd was so eager to see Dewey that they spoiled the effectiveness of this part of the arrangements by breaking through the ropes and surging about the grand stand, where they gave vent to wild cheering and a noisy demonstration that completely upset this part of the review. Admiral Dewey gave frequent acknowledgments to the cheers for him, and, seeing that the review had lost its distinctive character as a procession, quitted his place early, with the President, followed by the members of the Cabinet, left the stand, the admiral proceeding to the home of his hostess, Mrs. McLean, and some of the other accompanying the President to the White House. The procession was in line for a half hour later, and there were frequent salutes in ignorance of the admiral's absence.

It was 9:10 o'clock when the fatigued recipient of the day's demonstrations reached the residence of Mrs. Washington. The admiral, who is the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, on K street, facing Farragut Square. He was accompanied by Chairman Moses, his two aides, Lieut. Brumby and Lieut. Caldwell, and his son, George C. Dewey, arriving at the same time. The admiral was met at the door of the staircase by Mrs. McLean and her daughters, Mrs. Hazen and Mrs. Ludlow, and her grandson, Capt. Frederick Beiler. Mrs. McLean welcomed the admiral, and turned over the house to him for his use during his stay in Washington.

Mr. McLean and the members of her family then left, going to her country residence, Beaver, in the suburbs of Washington. The admiral had arrived sooner than was expected and before a crowd had collected. Presently the people surged in on all sides, and for some time would not believe the official statement that the admiral was inside.

A band came up and serenaded the admiral; the crowd cheered and cheered, and finally Dewey appeared at the window and bowed his acknowledgments. Cries of "Speech, speech!" were heard on every side, but met with no response. Luncheon was served by 9:30 o'clock, and then the admiral retired. Crowds lingered about the house for some time afterward.

LEAVING NEW YORK.

Huge Crowds Cheer as the Admiral Passes Through the Streets.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Admiral Dewey arose early this morning, and began preparations for his departure at 1 o'clock for Washington. After a light breakfast, after which he chatted a little with the members of his family, the admiral expressed himself as being much refreshed after the fatiguing incidents of the past week. The admiral saw no visitors this morning, but kept to his rooms and attended to some personal business until about 11 o'clock, when with the party escorting him, he started for a drive before proceeding to the railway station.

Admiral Dewey has received so many letters of welcome and congratulations since his arrival in the United States that he finds it impossible to answer them as he would wish. He therefore asks the press to convey his acknowledgments of their receipt and his thanks for their kind wishes and good wishes to his many friends.

Mayor Van Wyck called about 10 o'clock, and had a short talk with the admiral, who he bade good-by. Before he allowed the Mayor to leave Admiral Dewey told him to thank the people of New York for him for the remarkable demonstration in his honor.

"It was magnificent," said the admiral, "and far exceeded my expectations."

When Admiral Dewey left the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to go to Jersey City, the stoops and windowsills and railings of all the houses between the end of the hotel on Thirty-third street and Fifth avenue were filled with people, anxious to catch a glimpse of him. The admiral extended, each side of the street being filled with people. McKelway, who headed the committee of New Yorkers, went through no formality simply saying: "Gentlemen, here is the admiral."

Admiral Dewey bowed, and when asked if he was ready to go, he said he was, and he and Mr. Edson started downstairs and took carriages. His son, George Dewey, Jr., and the admiral came out of the hotel together. Mr. Edson handed the admiral into his carriage. The crowd immediately recognized the admiral, who was in civilian clothing, and a great cheer went up. Admiral Dewey bowed his acknowledgments.

George Dewey, Jr., got into the carriage, and then Mr. Edson entered. Sallor Nygard of the Olympia was on the seat with the driver. The police cleared the middle of the street, and the carriage started off. Then there was renewed cheering and waving of handkerchiefs and flags, and the admiral took off his hat and smiled. Then the carriage stopped, as Mr. Edson told the driver to wait for the other carriages.

The crowd tried to break through the lines when the carriage was stopped, but the police managed to force them back again. The cheering was continuous. The first carriage after that of Admiral Dewey contained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewey, and Senator Proctor. The second, Capt. Coghan and Mrs. Coghan and Commander Baird; the third, Capt. and Mrs. Lamberton; the fourth, Lieut. Brumby and Ensign Caldwell; and the fifth the two Chinese servants.

All the way down the avenue to Twenty-fifth street the admiral's arrival was awaited by a huge crowd. His carriage came along the people cheered him again and again, the admiral acknowledging the greetings by raising his hat and bowing. The carriages drove down Twenty-fifth street to the river, where the admiral was to board the navy yard tug Nina.

AT THE DOCK. NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—When Admiral Dewey's carriage reached the Pennsylvania dock a great cheer went up, and the admiral lifted his hat and bowed to the right and left. The carriage passed beyond the crowd. Gen. Miles hurried to the door of the carriage, pushing the police aside at the same time unbuttoning his overcoat and displaying his yellow sash and full-dress uniform.

"How are you, general?" said the admiral, as he stepped out. Then he was helped on board by two blue jackets, who steadied the gangplank, the remainder of the party following. The admiral shook hands with everybody, including his brother Charles, who has seen him very little since he returned home. To nearly every one he extended uniform, and all of the marchers carried flaming red torches.

The letter carriers had all of the local postal cars in line, ablaze with electric light, spelling words of welcome to Dewey. One of their features was a gigantic illuminated envelope, addressed to "Admiral George Dewey, Manila," and marked, "Returned to Washington."

The German societies had a most creditable representation, and altogether the civic parade was a worthy one. As the rear of the column went by the public fell in behind, and passed before the reviewing stand for an hour to get a glimpse of their hero.

The crowd was so eager to see Dewey that they spoiled the effectiveness of this part of the arrangements by breaking through the ropes and surging about the grand stand, where they gave vent to wild cheering and a noisy demonstration that completely upset this part of the review. Admiral Dewey gave frequent acknowledgments to the cheers for him, and, seeing that the review had lost its distinctive character as a procession, quitted his place early, with the President, followed by the members of the Cabinet, left the stand, the admiral proceeding to the home of his hostess, Mrs. McLean, and some of the other accompanying the President to the White House. The procession was in line for a half hour later, and there were frequent salutes in ignorance of the admiral's absence.

Sergt. Fagan had lined up his mounted police on the dock, and when he gave the cue the police let loose three rounds of cheer, which were taken up and echoed by the people who had crowded the surrounding docks. The admiral raised his hat and smiled. Then Sergt. Fagan came forward and said: "Pleasant journey, admiral," and the admiral reached forward and inquired: "What did you say, captain?"

"I wished you a pleasant journey," replied the sergeant.

"I thank you," said the admiral quickly, and bowed again.

Shortly afterward the tug's whistle gave a blast, and the boat began to slip away. The admiral, who was standing in the bow with Gen. Miles and several others, was the first to discover the possible danger in the vicinity of the line, which was becoming taut. He started away, and cautioned the others to do so also. Everybody cheered him as the tug passed out of the dock.

The Nina put in at the Pennsylvania wharf near the express-company dock. There was a tremendous throng present to welcome the admiral, and the cheering began as soon as the boat hove in sight. On the way across the river the admiral was very jolly. He spoke to Gen. Miles of the course he had been given in New York, and said: "General, it was magnificent."

He also spoke of the correspondence he had received in great batches, over some of which he laughed with Gen. Miles as he told him of it. He spoke of one letter he had received from a Scotchman, who had been giving him advice. Admiral Dewey said the man had told him he was a great man, but that he must not let the reception turn his head; that if he pursued his course he would be high in history, but he must remember that there are other great men, and that his name would not head the list.

In speaking of the crowds that lined the route the streets Sunday, Admiral Dewey said that it was a sea of human faces, all smiling, and that he had never seen "so many beautiful teeth."

As the boat put up at the pier, the crowd which had gathered recognized the admiral, who was preparing to step off, and the cheering was renewed. The boat was tied up, and the admiral was aided off by Lieut. Brumby and Mr. Edson.

The eighty members of the Washington committee were drawn in front of the landing, and Admiral Dewey stepped forward and saluted W. F. Cox of the committee, with whom he shook hands. Mr. McKelway then formally turned the admiral over to the Washington people. Gen. Miles had come up on the dock with all the other officials on the boat, and Mr. McKelway said to Gen. Miles:

"Good over Admiral Dewey to you. See that he is well taken care of."

A number of the members of the committee then stepped forward and greeted the admiral, and R. Ross Perry delivered a speech of welcome.

The crowd, which had ceased cheering during the speech, again broke out during Dewey's reply, let loose itself again, and enthusiasm for another minute was rampant.

Simon Wolf of the committee then came forward and pinned a bronze medal, made from a piece of cannon captured at Manila, on the breast of the admiral. If that was not enough, from the committee, in honor of the reception to be given him at the capital, and bore his portrait in relief and a suitable inscription.

The admiral and Gen. Miles moved forward together toward the train. Admiral Dewey was seated in a private structure which had been specially overlaid with green velvet carpeting. The police kept the crowd back.

The special train in waiting included the parlor car Atlanta, provided for the admiral. Gen. Miles handed him into this car, and Admiral Dewey turned and bowed to the people before he stepped on the handsome car. A final parting cheer was given him, while the members of the committee were boarding the other cars of the train. The engineer threw open the valve, and the train started for the capital.

Aboard the train was a committee representing the District of Columbia of all the members of the District of Columbia, to whom the admiral was to be given a special salute. The inscription read: "The freedom of the national capital is hereby tendered to Admiral George Dewey, United States Navy, as the guest of the District of Columbia, on the occasion of the ceremonies for the reception of the achievements of the forces under his command in the harbor of Manila, and as a mark of respect for his official and personal conduct under all the trying circumstances of that memorable period."

It was presented to Admiral Dewey after the reading of the inscription. In exchange for his freedom, to conduct the Chief of Police to the place where is secreted the famous watch stolen from ex-President Harrison five years ago. The watch was presented by the Senate at the expiration of Harrison's term. The timepiece is worth more than $1000.

OVER EIGHT MILLIONS.

UNCLE SAM'S SURPLUS FOR THE MONTH OF SEPTEMBER.

Total Receipts of the Government for That Period Were Forty-five Million Dollars in Round Figures—The Currency—Public Debt.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The comparative statement of the receipts and expenditures of the United States, during September, shows that the total receipts were $45,334,144, and the expenditures $37,579,372, which leaves a surplus for the month of $7,754,772.

The expenditures charged against the War Department during September were $10,541,515, as compared with $24,643,374 for September last year. Those charged against the Navy Department are $4,757,385, against $7,283,219 for September last year.

CURRENCY STATEMENT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The monthly statement of the Comptroller of the Currency shows that the total circulation of national bank notes on September 30, 1899, was $245,230,123, an increase for the year of $7,823,178, and an increase for the month of $1,218,336. The circulation based on "United States bonds" was $207,914,172, an increase for the year of $5,675,068, and an increase for the month of $7,512. The amount of United States registered bonds on deposit for circulation was $231,515,510, and to secure public deposits, $70,364,940.

FROM A FILIPINO STANDPOINT.

Gen. Alejandro, one of the Filipino envoys sent with the American prisoners, in conversation with a representative of the Associated Press at Manila, made some statements, which throw a strong light upon the motives, the desires, the hopes, and the delusions which prompt the Tagalog rebels to keep up the war against American authority. The Filipino general is a man of education, and he impressed the reporter as a keen observer. But he is known to be a professional bluffer, and is a born diplomatist as much as a strategist in war, for which he has a reputation. From his statements it is made clear that never that the most potent influence back of the Aguinaldo "government," in inducing the rebels to continue the war, is the hope that their friends and sympathizers in this country will succeed in working up a public opinion in their favor strong enough to induce Congress to reverse itself and to cause our withdrawal from the Philippines. The idea of Aguinaldo and his associates is that if they can hold out against our forces for a time, the American people will get tired of the war, and will abandon it in sheer disgust. Gen. Alejandro says that the natives can maintain a state of war indefinitely, fighting in their way, as a Filipino soldier can exist "with a handful of rice and a pair of linen trousers," while the Americans must have plenty of good food and clothing. The Filipino soldiers, moreover, do not have to be paid wages, or at least, he says, their pay can be withheld from them indefinitely, while the American soldiers are paid wages that appear, to the Filipino mind, to be exorbitant. Gen. Alejandro made numerous inquiries touching the probable effect of "anti-imperialist" action by Congress, and the growth of sentiments favorable to the Filipino cause in the United States.

All of this goes directly to show the effect of the pernicious activity of the Atkinsonian cabal. The foolish utterances of W. J. Bryan and other small-souled, unpatriotic and narrow-minded politicians have also gone far in encouraging the misguided men who are arrayed in armed rebellion against our authority and one flag. These rebels are building their hopes of success chiefly upon the efforts which are being made in their behalf by Bryan, Atkinson, and the rest of the Filipino allies and sympathizers in the United States. If it were not for the treacherous utterances of these men, the rebellion in Luzon would not last a month. It would, in fact, have been crushed out months ago, and there would now be no necessity for the maintenance of a large army in the islands, with its attendant expense and loss of life.

It is thus clear that Messrs. Bryan, Atkinson, et al., are in large part responsible for the very thing of which they are complaining—the continuance of the Filipino war. If they had had the good sense or the patriotism to hold their tongues, the war would long since have been ended, and many precious American lives, to say nothing of hundreds of Filipino lives which have been lost, would have been spared. It is useless for these men, some of whom are actuated by fanaticism and some by demagoguery, to seek to place the blame for present condition upon the President. He has simply performed his constitutional duty, in seeking to preserve order in the territory acquired through the action of Congress. They have been actuated by no considerations of duty. The agitation which they have sought to inaugurate in favor of the rebels is not only uncalled for and unwise, but is positively evil in its results, as indicated above.

There is no possible excuse for such action on the part of any citizen or class of citizens in a time of war. When the war shall have been brought to an end, our people may legitimately differ as to the policy to be pursued in the Philippines. But so long as there is an armed force to offer resistance to our authority and insult to our flag, the men of the great American nation should stand shoulder to shoulder, as one man, in defense of our sovereignty and our flag.

Our foes who are counting upon action favorable to their cause by Congress are placing dependence upon a forlorn hope. Nothing is less probable than any action of this kind by Congress. In the first place there is little probability that the political complexion of Congress will be changed at the next election. In the second place, that election will not be held until November, 1900, and the new Congress will not meet until December, 1901. In the third place, should the war continue until then, it is not probable that the Democratic party, if it should gain control of the government, would commit the suicidal and unspeakable folly of withdrawing our men and our influence from the Philippines. The politicians of the Bryanite school may talk this sort of thing until they are black in the face; but talk is one thing and action is another.

If W. J. Bryan were President today, with a Congress behind him Democratic in both branches, he would not dare to do the things which he is constantly denouncing the President for not doing. Public opinion would force him to pursue a course almost identical with that which the President is pursuing in this matter. The Luzon rebels, therefore, in expecting to derive material aid from the "anti-imperialist" agitation in the United States, are leaning upon a broken reed, which is liable to break at any time, with consequences disastrous to themselves. Gen. Alejandro is a cunning politician, and is recent utterances were intended for consumption by the Filipino party of the United States.

BELITTLING AND INSULTING DEWEY.

Senator Hanna is right; the persistent talk about running Dewey for the Presidency, despite his repeated assertions that nothing on earth could induce him to run, is despicable and indecent. The miserable blatherskites who are clamoring for Dewey's candidacy have no concern whatever for the great hero's comfort or fame. The movement is conceived in political selfishness of an ignoble character, and there is not a spark of true patriotism or of genuine admiration for the great hero in it. Today Admiral Dewey has the admiration of all his countrymen of whatever party. He stands singly and alone as the one great character in our country who has neither critics nor detractors. As the matchless hero of the war with Spain his glory will glow for all time in a firmament that blazes with stars of American valor, and there Dewey and his fame should be left to be forever undimmed by the tarnishing influences that come from political strife and contention. Dewey has earned the gratitude and admiration of all his countrymen, and he possesses their admiration and confidence to as great a degree as any American that has ever lived. The Presidency could add nothing to his fame, but would add vastly to his cares and trials, and would at once set up for him millions of critics who are now cheering at the mention of his name. While the American people may have the utmost confidence in Admiral Dewey, those who love him most and have the greatest amount of interest in his future happiness and welfare look with scorn upon the clamorous mountebanks who are using his name for a selfish purpose. It is time for this insolent and unwarranted talk about Dewey's candidacy for the Presidency to stop, and if the wretches who are doing the clamoring were possessed of the first elements of common decency and an iota of patriotism it would stop instantly. The Admiral has been asked to be saved from the people who want to shake hands with him, and he also might well pray to be spared from the contemptible cattle who are bandying his name about in connection with the Presidential office wholly without warrant.

The September gold output of the Cripple Creek district broke all records, amounting to $1,731,000. Such statistics as these will help more to wean the State of Colorado from the heresy of free silverism than would the speeches of thirteen carloads of spellbinders, all talking at once. The production of gold in this district from the time of its discovery in 1891 to date is more than $62,000,000. This very handsome showing should again impress the fact that it isn't necessary to go to Klondike and lose numerous ears, fingers, arms, legs and other accoutrements in order to find gold in carload lots.

The latest corn story from Kansas is to the effect that the crop is long enough to hold the grain, shelled corn being piled up all around the stalks. Any one disinclined to believe this story may, by making a trip to Kansas, see the stalks.

MOUNTAIN FIRES.

A correspondent whose name is withheld from publication for sufficient reasons, writes to The Times in regard to an editorial which recently appeared in these columns on the subject of forest preservation. He declares that although there are severe fines and penalties for those who set fires, it is next to impossible to secure convictions, for the reason that the people who know are afraid to testify, and juries would not dare to convict for fear of reprisals. The correspondent says it is a great mistake to suppose that these fires are caused by any considerable extent by campers, who have no motive for setting a fire. The cattle and sheep men, he declares, are responsible for nearly all of the fires. They start them deliberately, for a purpose, and are very glad to throw suspicion on hunters, miners, campers, etc. Not one fire in fifty, he says, is accidental, and the stock men laugh in their sleeves at the innocence of the city folks and government officers in believing the fires to be the result of accident.

Another important point to which the correspondent calls attention is the fact that most of the stock men claim, and really believe, that they have a right to burn the range. In the less enlightened communities there are many persons not stock raisers, who believe the same. They are most of them uneducated and unscrupulous, and the few who know the harm they are doing care nothing for it, compared to the small temporary gain to themselves. "To the more ignorant," says the correspondent, further, "it seems an arbitrary and unreasonable law, to be paid no attention to. Burning the brush and timber makes it easier to ride around over the land, and the second growth brush makes a little feed for stock. The sheep men never, and the cattle men seldom, own the land they occupy. They rent the range, or more often occupy the public lands without rent, and the damage to the land means nothing to them."

There is doubtless a great deal of truth in what the correspondent says. The remedy for this state of things may be somewhat difficult, but there is no doubt that a remedy can be found, and having been found can be effectively applied. Much of the grazing land in California is good for no other active use, but it is of incalculable value, when covered with timber and underbrush, in conserving the water supply. It would better all lie idle than that the productive valley lands should be made barren by robbing them of their natural water supplies.

One remedial measure that would doubtless have a salutary effect would be to make examples of a few of the men who are guilty of setting these fires. While the difficulty of securing evidence may be great, it is by no means insuperable. More rangers are needed, and they should be clothed with ample authority to make arrests. With more men to watch the forest preserves, the chances of apprehending the guilty parties would be correspondingly increased; and if the extreme penalties of the law were visited upon a few of the culprits, others would soon desist from the practice.

If necessary, cattle and sheep should be rigidly excluded from the public lands. Men who cannot use these lands for legitimate purposes without abusing the privilege, forfeit all consideration, and should be accorded no privileges whatever.

It would probably be well, also, as our correspondent suggests, to confine camping to specially prepared places; to make cleared strips in all the mountains before the season of fires; and to give lectures at all the country school-houses for the purpose of instructing those persons who will neither read nor think. The question of forest preservation is a question of grave importance in all parts of the country, but it is vitally important to Southern California, where every drop that comes from the clouds is precious.

The splendid condition which our captured soldiers were in when returned by the Filipinos, and the general good report they give of their treatment at the hands of the rebels, is gratifying in that it shows that the natives have a good conception of the demands of civilization, while the fact that the men returned are well and hearty will be of comfort to the friends of those other American soldiers and sailors who are still in the hands of the Filipinos, notably Lieut. Gilmore and his men. The fact that these captured men of the army and navy have been humanely and almost generously treated by the Philippine natives gives hope that when peace is once more restored to the island we may find that the people there will be amenable to enlightenment and education. Visitors to the Philippines agree that the natives are imitative and quick to learn, and that those who are peaceably inclined appear anxious to become Americanized. The problem of the Philippines is likely to be much easier worked out than many of our people, particularly the kickers and copperheads, expect it to be.

The science of aeronautics has claimed another victim in the person of young Almer McPherson, an Oakland boy, who sustained fatal injuries at San Francisco last Sunday, upon the occasion of making his second ascension. It is presumed that these fatalities will continue until the law steps in and puts a penalty upon the exercise of endeavoring to navigate an element that is only fit for the flight of birds.

Fighting Bob Evans, who is acting as chief cop at the wet race course on which the Columbia and Shamrock are to sail today, gives due notice to the floating mob that any boat that is run outside the lines established will immediately be sent back to New York in charge of a revenue officer. It is thus to be seen, apparently, that international yacht racing has become an affair of such importance that the government of the United States proposes to take a hand in the preservation of good order on the line of march. What would happen to a master of a vessel, who would disregard Capt. Evans's warning, remains to be seen. The presumption is that nothing more trifling would befall the offending captain bold than to be led back to New York under command of a revenue officer with no subsequent proceedings worth talking about.

It is not surprising that Admiral Dewey was completely worn out by the long hours of hard work attendant upon the two days' reception in the city of New York, and by the tremendous mental strain which constituted a demand that few men could meet without breaking down. It is difficult for the ordinary man, unfamiliar with the exercise of facing audiences to meet the ordinary crowd of people, but when the eyes of the whole world are focussed upon him indirectly, and several millions of eyes are looking at him directly, the tension to which he is keyed up must be something enormous. And when one considers that Dewey is but at the beginning of this sort of thing he cannot help feeling that the hero of Manila must sometimes wish he had never shot old man Montojo's fleet full of holes.

And now the miserable newspapers, that refused to see good in anything, are claiming that the reception to Admiral Dewey was conceived in greed and brought forth in a desire for profit on the part of the people of New York City. In order to be consistent and no more damnable than the usual these newspapers should now assert that Dewey is to get a share of the rake-off.

Mr. Kruttschnitt's cycles of accidents seem to be becoming perpetual. The San José train succeeded in killing a father and young son, seriously injuring the mother and another child, breaking a horse's neck and doing other damage less serious. The long-windedness of Mr. Kruttschnitt's cycles are their strong suit.

The flat of fashion has gone forth that ladies' bicycle hose must not be so loud hereafter as to resemble a Dewey reception. This ought to assist Chicago in her contemplated campaign against the nuisance of noise, for it is in Chicago where the bicycle stocking has reached its highest and most vociferous state of inflation.

When Senator Billy Mason gets sufficiently ashamed of his country to move to Canada, or some other foreign land, we will begin to believe that he is not talking through that portion of his anatomy which he thinks he should wish.

Should war ensue in South Africa, numerous diamond and gold mines in that section of the country are likely to have new proprietors. And the old proprietors will have themselves to thank for having brought on the war which will despoil them of their property.

A Servian prince is about to marry the daughter of a Chicago pork-packer who has money to consume in a conflagration. We sometimes wonder what the princes and potentates of foreign lands would do without our prolific mine of American girls.

Mark Hanna says England's political system is fully as good as ours. Those Englishmen who have been declaring that it is a great deal better than ours will be given fifteen minutes in which to say what they think of Mr. Hanna.

It is a pity that some of the men who are so freely making use of Admiral Dewey's name in connection with an office which he doesn't want, are not possessed of some of the great admiral's exquisite modesty.

The human race will take a day off today, and those of us who are not witnessing the yacht race will proceed to talk about it, with, in many instances, more patriotism than intelligence.

The fact that England is buying artillery horses in the United States is evidence that the English cannon are to be pulled through South Africa, if pulled at all, by first-class livestock.

Now, if the Columbia will only repeat the performance of Dewey's fleet in the bay of Manila, it will be the Yankee nation's turn to give another shout that will be heard around the world.

What so-called Jerry Simpson is in danger of at this time is a hideous accident, when he attempts to make a speech championing the cause of his great and good friend, Aguinaldo.

A Colorado minister preached last Sunday on "A Man's Experience in Hell," but singular to state there was nothing in his few remarks which referred to a Populist convention.

President Kruger may find the numerous ultimatums that have been issued to him quite convenient to paper a room with as a souvenir of the late war—after the war is over.

Maine had a distinct shock of earthquake the other day, probably caused by Tom Reed dropping a refrigerator or something, as he was in the act of moving to New York.

When Dewey comes west, as he promises to do, it might be well to remind him that Los Angeles is on the map as large as life and twice as natural.

The Green Mountain State will also take occasion to crack open in the neighborhood of Montpelier "On the day that Dewey comes home."

The mobilization of President Kruger's troops might be taken as an indication that the Boer is showing his tusks.

A Colorado paper also raises the question, "Is alcohol a food?" If it is there are 200 lunch counters in this town.

Americans have every confidence that the Columbia will today hitch another hauler onto the American's Cup.

The Playhouses.

BURBANK THEATER. "The Dancing Girl," the play by Henry Arthur Jones, the famous London playwright, which the Frawley company presented for the first time here on Sunday evening, is, while striking and powerful in its scenes and situations, neither new in its motif nor free from those puppets of the stage which writers of the drama have been using for so many years that they have become seemingly as necessary to the carrying out of a plot as the scene painter's art is necessary to the setting of a stage.

In Mr. Jones's play we have Hazel Kirke and her hard-hearted old father, Dunstan, over again in Drusilla Ives and her Quaker father, David, in the Duke of Guisebury. "The Dancing Girl" affords us a character like that of the dashing and debonair young nobleman, who pranced Hazel Kirke, and in Sibly Crake, the lame girl in the play now being produced at the Burbank, there is a repetition of the nobleman, the blind girl in the play "The Charity Ball." These are not the only familiar figures that Mr. Jones considers in the making of his drama of the fleshly school, but that he has succeeded in placing them where the lights are high and the coloring strong, is not to be gainsaid.

Of course it is too much to expect an English playwright of the contemporary period to escape the question of the everlasting sex question is not the predominating and all-pervading feature of the theatrical menu. In Drusilla Ives, however, is added a young Quakeress who has left the dull goodness of the Isle of St. Endellion, and who goes up to the town, where she becomes a reigning social celebrity as a dancing girl, masquerading under the name of Dianna Valrose. At some period in her career, and at an early stage of it, there penetrates into the region that lies behind the footlights, His Grace the Duke of Guisebury, who, like most men of title (especially the men of title whom playwrights use in their business) is no better than he ought to be. With a young Quakeress to his entourage, setting up for her an establishment, which, at the end, like most such establishments, costs the man who sustains it a very pretty penny. It eventually leads him, not only to the brink of financial ruin, but to a point where there is nothing left but suicide, a step from which he is fortunately saved, thanks to the opportunistic of things in the drama, by the appearance of his good angel, the lame girl, Sibly Crake, who arrives just in time to grasp the hand of the fatal diabolical As a matter of course the father of Drusilla Ives knows nothing of the career upon which his daughter has embarked, and into your ear his grief he'll pour; He talks about the weather, or He tells how he would run the war; Of nature he has a queer sort of roar; He airs his Lilliputian store; Of mewed, mediocre lore; He talks until your head is sore; You want to sink down through the floor; You long to rise and shed his gore; You yearn to kick him through the door; And then, as was remarked before, He talks and talks and talks some more.

Of nuisances he ranks the first, The smallest calibred, the worst, The longest winded, most accurate, At heart a loafer and a shirk, The head of all who want to work He is a fount of weariness. Stale, tiresome, flat and profitless, He is a left-over, misplaced. Who makes of life a barren waste; Within, God's grand economy He serves no use, unless it be, Like the mosquito on the fly, To buzz to torture and annoy. Of all the creatures, in his plan God made to bear the form of man, He is the worst that's dressed in pain.

The kicker's not a circumstance—He talks and talks for such a spell He has no time to think, so well He likes to hear his wind-works go. He never gives his brain a show. He talks as soon as it is light, He talks to torture and annoy. He talks at home and when he eats, And then he talks upon the streets. A dreary, everlasting song Goes through his hat the whole day long. In fact, so hard at it he keeps, He even grumbles when he sleeps. If he should reach the heavenly shore, He'd talk so much they'd bar the door And drive him out forevermore—The bore.

DE PROFUNDIS. There is no poet where there is no song; And who can sing that neither heeds nor knows? So dark, so weak, too weak to call it wrong—The slightest line that turns my song to prose. Ah! verily men say that when we're young, Our mind is transfigured every-where. And I have stood upon God's Mount, And sung to the glory of the Lord, And gazed upon the Christ and knew Him fair.

Ah! well-a-day! I neither see nor know, God lets me live, and Life itself is sweet. From day to day I wander to and fro—Unto tomorrow I must drink and eat.

There is some law by which the beast and flower Live unto God, and are most lovely so; Like unto them in this mine evil hour, That I am living unto God, I know. On me the glory of the sunshine falls, On me the drops of gladness-giving rain. No more than I, the basest thing that crawls, Can triumph in its lack of mortal pain. And will He leave my soul in hell to pine Outside the influence of His natural sway? No honor, outpouring of His oil and wine I supplant, but light to find my way.—[E. H. Coleridge.]

Petitions Filed. Two petitions were filed yesterday with the City Clerk. Shattuck & Desmond complained that there was danger from storm water that would come down Alameda street during the rainy season and asked that adequate culverts be placed at the Ninth street crossing. Frank H. Shafer complained of a nuisance existing at the northwest corner of Seventh and Mateo streets on account of a large hole in a sidewalk which the zanja empties. The petition cites the place as a menace to the health of the neighborhood.

More Names Added. Mayor Eaton yesterday added several more names to the committee that has been appointed to receive the visiting miners on behalf of the city. They are as follows: Hon. J. J. Gosper, George W. Parsons, H. M. Russell, Charles Forman and Judge Olin Wellborn.

ORPHEUM. The boys from Hungary, in their bright uniforms and playing the airs of their native land, as well as the tunes of our own country, like veterans, came back to us last night after two years' absence, and were given a reception that was inspiring. The boys' programme last night comprised the Hungarian March, Rossini's splendid "William Tell" overture, the Hungarian dances and for encore numbers, "The Star Spangled Banner," and other patriotic American airs. These were inevitable crowd-melting, and Sousa's ever-popular march, "The Stars and Stripes Forever." The playing of these tunes, in time and rhythm, and there is a swing and go to the music they make that is as infectious as the cheers of a regiment of troops in the act of charging bayonets. The little drummer boy, who made such a hit with the ladies when the band was last here, is two years older than then, but he is just as seriously in earnest in the work of directing a drum band as ever. Schilzoni Niklos, the imperturbable director, still retains his fine command of the youngsters, and wields the baton so effectively that every instrument responds as though he were the individual player. The band was stormily entertained last night, and that more than once, and that the boys are in for another season of great popularity with local audiences is plainly apparent.

On this week introduces a new team of athletes, the Bright brothers, who present some feats of strength that have probably never been equaled on this stage. Their work is clean-cut and shows marvelous display of muscle. Although both are big men, they are worked about by each other as though they were pigmies, and that with the most dexterous ease and grace. A feature of their turn is the lifting of the human dumbbells by one of the performers (dumbbells in which are enclosed two youngsters of seventy-five or eighty pounds each, which is added the weight of the performer who is for the moment disengaged.) Hallen and Fuller appear in a new vaudeville, Miss Fuller and Mr. Hallen are thoroughly at home in droll conceit, and make the most of it. Charles Case has some new songs, and some of the folks at his house—father, sister and "Brother Hank"—and sings some songs that are vastly funny.

Bachelors' Club Quartette. Arnold and Grazer, the dancing juveniles, and the Crawford sisters, in their bill of fare, present the show of the week which will go every night during the week.

THE BORE.

He talks and talks, then talks some more, And always says the same old say. He comes wound up, prepared to say, He talks you blind and deaf and gray, Until within your heart you pray That he may die or go away. He talks to torture and annoy, Into your ear his grief he'll pour; He talks about the weather, or He tells how he would run the war; Of nature he has a queer sort of roar; He airs his Lilliputian store; Of mewed, mediocre lore; He talks until your head is sore; You want to sink down through the floor; You long to rise and shed his gore; You yearn to kick him through the door; And then, as was remarked before, He talks and talks and talks some more.

PITH OF THE COAST PRESS.

[Pasadena Star.] Grand as it was, the reception to Admiral Dewey yesterday was none too good. "More than the best of it all is, he is not troubled with an enlarged cranium in consequence of honors showered upon him."

[San Jose Mercury.] The authorities of a Wisconsin town propose to compel all bicycle riders to take out a license and pay $100 therefor. These license fees are to provide a fund for the compensation of the possible victims of collisions demanded their rights.

[Pomona Progress.] The man, whose wife "had just died" and who is "forced" to sell an eighteen-karat gold ring for 50 cents, which he will redeem for a dollar as soon as he can earn that much, has visited Azusa and disposed of a stock of rings. The fake is gray-headed, but people seem to respect it for its age and buy the rings just the same as they used to years ago when it was a new thing in fakedom.

[Albuquerque Journal-Democrat.] A leading article in the El Paso Herald opens with the statement that three hundred years ago a gentleman named Davis sailed up the strait between Greenland and Canada. "That item may be fresh enough, but it is not the El Paso market, but everywhere else the people are more interested in the fact that three days ago a gentleman named Dewey sailed into the harbor at New York."

[Winchester Recorder.] Santa Clara county prune-growers, perceiving the benefits of combination, have formed a trust for the purpose of mutual protection and of selling the products of its members in eastern markets. The growers believe that by working together it can be disposed of readily and bring a fair price. The plan of organizing the union 1500 tons of fruit were represented and 1000 tons were at once pledged.

[San Francisco Press.] Thanks to the efforts of our energetic Chamber of Commerce, the long-talked-of new bath-house now seems to have a good chance. From the good news we believe will come a good ending. This widespread organization will continue to give its earnest attention to vital questions affecting the welfare of the city. It is a working organization, and stands for progress. If this city is to prosper, it will not neglect the welfare of its citizens. It will require workers.

[Fresno Republican.] The San Francisco organ of the Southern Pacific advocates the purchase of the Santa Clara baths by the railroad company, which is, of course, all right, if the baths are for sale and the company chooses to buy them. The only curious thing about it is the argument: "As a sentimental proposition it would be a shame to let the Santa Clara baths and the fall into the hands of some one who would, by squeezing money out of them, make them unpopular." Would the Southern Pacific run the baths as sentimental propositions or as public charities?

[San Francisco Chronicle.] The idocy of nature that the President "off-fronted" Dewey by not meeting him at New York is worthy of yellow journalism at its worst estate. It is well known that the President, on a usual fact, avoids New York at this time so as to give the admiral a clear field with a victory. Personally he did his part by sending an official with congratulations and ordering the North Atlantic fleet to New York. He would welcome Dewey at Washington and do it in a way to leave the way-faring man, though a reader of yellow journals, no doubt as to where he stands.

[San Pedro American.] Mrs. Dodson's proposed gift of lands for a park, reservoir and water works is a very clearly along honorable lines. The territory has been annexed as stipulated; this was one thing. The other was that an election shall be called for the purpose of voting bonds for municipal ownership of San Pedro's water supply, and that the bonds shall carry at such an election. Mrs. Dodson says the amount of the bonds is left to the discretion of the Board of Trustees, but she presumes they will be in such sum as will give ample water for the present and future needs of the city and the recently annexed territory. There are no mysterious stipulations.

[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.] Cardinal Gibbons' visit to the White House last week was of more than usual importance. Dressed in the full robes of a cardinal he called upon President McKinley and informed him of the death of a representative of the Catholic church he desired to announce that no sympathy was felt for the resolutions which had been passed by some Catholic circles condemning the conduct of American soldiers in the Philippines. He told the President that the church heartily approved of the administration in the Philippines and had no complaint to make against the conduct of the troops. Cardinal Gibbons' call was entirely voluntary and was made in a way to enforce its importance.

What One Hears in the Telephone. [New Orleans Times-Democrat.] "It is very hard to realize that the voice one hears over the telephone is not the voice of the person who is talking," said an electrician, talking about the oddities of the business. "It seems exactly like the real tones, drawn out thin and small, and carried from a long distance by some mechanical means—but it isn't. When one speaks into the instrument, a little diaphragm, like a drum-head, beats the vibrations, and each vibration sends a wave of electricity over the wire. These waves set up a mimic vibration in some other diaphragm at the opposite end, which jars the air and produces an imitation of the original voice. That's not a very scientific explanation, but it's accurate. The autograph-telegraph, which makes a facsimile of handwriting, is a fair parallel. You write your message on a sheet of paper, and the pen, an electrical apparatus, and a little ink siphon at the other end of the line exactly imitates every dot and curve. The result seems like the real thing, but it is merely a first-class counterfeiter. It is the same way exactly with the voice in the 'phone.'"

Flushing the Outfall. Beginning yesterday the city will send a continuous flow of 300 inches of sewage through the outfall sewer. It is hoped by this means to check the rampant epidemic of typhoid fever. The sewer for the purpose is taken from the Chinese gardens, but it is thought that before long the same price can be had for the sewage at Inglewood. The revenue that the city derives from the sale of sewage is now about $500 per year.

The fifteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Blanchard was celebrated by a surprise reception at the home of Mrs. Gidley, No. 1011 West First street. The party met at the home of Mrs. Gidley, No. 1011 West First street. Later, Mr. Blanchard returned home, and the double surprise was complete. A delightful program was rendered, including a few remarks by Dr. Breese, who officiated at the marriage fifteen years ago. Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, Mrs. S. P. Haskell, Mrs. Emma Woody-Hodson, Mrs. J. B. Brown and Miss Parker also contributed to the program with literary and musical numbers. Mrs. Fitzhenry, sister of Mrs. Blanchard, and Mrs. Juliette M. G. Talarday assisted in entertaining. Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard received many handsome crystal gifts and a large number of handsome bouquets.

Henry P. Sessler of Battery L, Third Artillery, who returned September 25 from fifteen months' service in the Philippine Islands, was surprised by his many friends Saturday evening at the home of his parents, No. 711 East Twenty-second street. The house was gracefully hung with American flags and tri-colored bunting, and decorated with palms and potted plants. Dancing and games furnished entertainment for the guests, after which supper was served.

A reception was given at the Los Angeles Military Academy Saturday evening to a large number of relatives and friends of the students. An impromptu program was rendered, including vocal solos by Mrs. Scarborough, violin numbers by Mr. Herzog, piano solos, Miss Wheat; a talk on current history by Mrs. Chapin; mandolin and guitar duet, Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Farrell of Pasadena. Refreshments were served, followed by dancing.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Cromwell Galpin gave a reception to members and ex-members of her various classes. The house on Fremont avenue was prettily decorated, and orchestral music provided an accompaniment to light refreshments. The afternoon was passed in pleasant converse among the two hundred ladies present, and closed with an impromptu dance, participated in by the younger members.

PASSED BOGUS CHECKS.
Frank L. Anderson Entangled in the Meshes of the Law.

Frank L. Anderson, a young man of superfluous gall and genteel appearance, has come to grief through working the bogus check racket. Anderson pleaded guilty yesterday in Justice Austin's court, to the charge of having defrauded John J. Shay, proprietor of the Reception saloon, in the Temple Block, out of $20 by means of a spurious check.

Shay says William Mattoon, a pension attorney, introduced Anderson to him as the son of a retired capitalist and bank director of Anaheim, on Monday of last week; the young man owed Mattoon some money for services rendered, but had no funds except a check on the Bank of Long Beach for $20. It being after banking hours, Mattoon asked Shay to cash the check for Anderson. Shay did so. The check was signed "So. Cal. T. M. Co., per Frank L. Anderson," and was indorsed by Anderson.

With the proceeds of the check Anderson bought tickets to Monday night's prize fight for himself and Mattoon, and had a merry time generally, as becomes the son of an Anaheim banker. Later he called upon Shay and asked whether the latter could let him have $5 more. Shay thought the young man was trying to work him for a good thing, and replied: "No, my friend, I have no more to give you."

When the check passed through the clearinghouse next day, it was returned to Shay with the indorsement "No funds." Shay accordingly swore out a warrant for Anderson's arrest.

Detective Hawley, who has been working on the case, has discovered that Shay is not the only victim of Anderson's dishonesty.

Lewis Tag, a first-street barber, cashed a check for $10, drawn on the Bank of Long Beach, September 22. When presented for payment the check was dishonored.

compelled to get out of the clothes, which were returned to the shelf, while he was unceremoniously bounced from the store.
Anderson pleaded guilty when arraigned before Justice Austin yesterday for misdemeanor in regard to the check cashed by Shay, and was ordered brought up for sentence at 9:30 o'clock this morning. A complaint will also be filed against him on account of the bogus check worked off on Barber Tag.
Anderson formerly was a street-car man, employed on the Los Angeles Railway Company's Boyle Heights line. He conducted a phonograph parlor at Long Beach last summer.

[RAILROAD RECORD.]
THE HOLLYWOOD LINE.

Wine Freight Higher—Citrus Fruit Shipments—Notes.
The Hollywood electric road scheme if taking shape in a most encouraging way. G. J. Griffith and ex-Governor Beveridge, who have been the moving spirits in the matter, report that all the citrus fruit, which has been subscribed excepting about $1000. The right-of-way has also been secured over a large part of the line, and it is hoped that there will be no trouble in securing it over the rest of it. The people of the valley are taking hold of the proposition in a public spirited way, and it is now hoped that by New Year's day the road will be in operation.

October 10, the rate on wine in wood from all California common points to New York and all west to the Missouri River will be raised from 60 cents to 75 cents in barrels, 20 per cent. more in puncheons.

At the close of business September 29 the shipments of citrus fruits from this section since November 1, 1898, aggregated 10,325 carloads, as compared with 15,006 in the same period in the previous year. This year between July 3 and September 29, only 358 carloads of citrus fruit went out of Southern California. Shipments for November last year were almost nothing, and the same will be true this year.

E. E. Ayer, a director in the Santa Fe Railroad Company, came in yesterday in car No. 220.

Andrew Smith, superintendent of telegraphic service of the California Southern and of the Santa Fe Pacific, has been given a similar jurisdiction over the Valley road.

C. D. Hagerman, traveling passenger agent of the Burlington at Pittsburgh, is here on a visit.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

A Series of Lectures on Science and Religion.

B. R. Baumgardt, of the Southern California Academy of Sciences will lecture next Friday at the College on "The Knowable and the Unknowable in Spencer's Philosophy." This address is the first of a series to be given on the so-called conflict between science and religion as found in the doctrine of evolution. Lectures in an extensive course will follow on subsequent Fridays at 7:30 p.m. Among the scientists and theologians who will present papers are the following: Dr. George Cochran, dean of the College of Liberal Arts; A. J. Frost, D.D.; Dr. George W. White, ex-president of the University; Frank Gordon, M.D.; Dr. J. H. Hoose, Ph.D.; and Orville P. Phillips and L. J. Stabler of the science department of the university. The course of lectures is free and the public is invited.

Clayton J. Hinman left Monday for Chicago, where he will take a course in medicine at the Northwestern University, he having secured a scholarship in the medical department. Mr. Hinman is well known in Southern California football circles, having been a member of the University team for the past six years.

Dr. M. E. Phillips, former dean of the College of Liberal Arts, who has reentered the Southern California Conference of the Methodist Church, will remain in Los Angeles for the present. He was assigned to San Luis Obispo by the recent conference held in this city, but will take a year's vacation, enrolling himself on the supernumerary list.

H. B. Tebbetts has been elected to the presidency of the College Athletic Association, vice T. C. Knoles, resigned.
The freshmen have organized a football team and are practicing. Charles Broderson has been elected captain and H. C. Marble manager. It is expected that arrangements will be made for an annual game between the freshman classes of the University and Pomona College.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS.

Conventions Today of Young People of Baptist Church.
The Sunday-schools of the Los Angeles Association of Baptist Churches will meet in convention today at the First Baptist Church. Annual reports will be read and papers will be presented at the morning session by Ernest Canfield of Pasadena, Prof. A. E. Baker and Capt. F. J. Cressy of Los Angeles. In the afternoon papers by Dr. Kate Moody and Dr. John C. McCoy of Los Angeles will be discussed. The Young People's Convention in the evening will be addressed by Rev. J. F. Frost, D.D., and C. C. Pierce.

Roofing Company in Trouble.

A petition to have the Ready Rock Asphalt Roofing Company, doing business at No. 106 North Main street, declared insolvent, was filed yesterday in the District Court by several creditors. It is alleged in the petition that the company owes debts aggregating $10,000, and that they have admitted in writing their insolvency and inability to pay the claims.

According to the petition the roofing company owes the Lacy Manufacturing Company $361.67 rental, the Harper & Reynolds Company $120.95 for merchandise, and Andrew Glassell $296.15 on an assigned claim of the Western Oil and Asphalt Company, for materials furnished.

Oil Derrick Destroyed.
The Pacific Coast Oil Company, represented locally by Nettleton & Kellerman, has received word of the destruction of seven rigs and derricks belonging to the company that were located in the Newhall Cañon. The loss amounted to about $7000, and was occasioned by forest fires of a week ago, which baffled control for several days.

WATERWORKS BONDS

STEPS TAKEN BY COUNCIL FOR IMMEDIATE ISSUANCE.

School Bonds to Be Advertised for Sale.—The Signboard Ordinance Adopted—Proclamation in the Oil Matter.

Frank Duarte, charged with the Murder of Edward Lopez at Baldwin's Ranch, Now on Trial.

Too Bad for Preston, Young Brown Is Sent to the Penitentiary—A County Jail Prisoner Takes a Trip.

The Council yesterday authorized the issuance of water bonds to the amount of $2,000,000, as voted at the special election held a little over a month ago. The bonds will be serial in character and will bear interest at the rate of 3% per cent. The ordinance calls for $200,000 of bonds to be sold at $100 each, and the balance of $1,800,000 at $200 each. The ordinance passed the Council without opposition or discussion, and will be signed by the Mayor as soon as it can be prepared in proper form.

The City Clerk was instructed to advertise for bids on $200,000 school bonds. The Mayor is already in receipt of communications asking for a chance to bid on the bonds, and there is no doubt entertained but what they will be sold for a good price.

Much filibustering is being indulged in by the officials at the City Hall regarding the enforcement of the ordinance protecting parks from encroachment by oil wells and there is a decided tendency to procrastinate in regard to the ordinance.

The Oil Inspector greater jurisdiction. Fire Chief Moore made a report on the location and condition of the fire apparatus now being stored in the city. The special committee appointed to look into the matter of a detention hospital reported, and the clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for a new one.

A large amount of routine business was transacted by the Council. The improvement of many streets was ordered.

Frank Duarte, at whose hands Edward Lopez met his death at Baldwin's ranch, the Fourth of July, is now on trial in Department One. Little interest is being shown in the case. Duarte says that he was compelled to kill the man by force. There were no witnesses to the shooting, and scarcely anything is known about the affair.

George Brown, a young man sentenced to the Preston Industrial School for burglary, a year ago last August, has been returned to the courts of this county by reason of his ineligibility, and was yesterday ordered committed to San Quentin for three years.

Frank Dolle, a "trusty" in the County Jail, had an excellent opportunity to go to his home in Inglewood on Sunday and he embraced it. Last night he swept the jail's steps, finished his job, walked out home, spent a few hours, and walked back again—all of his own free will.

Onta Lawley, who charges Curtis Colyear, a second-hand furniture dealer, with seduction, does not now wish to drop her case. Last January she took $5 to do so, but alleges that undue influence was brought to compel her acceptance. In an affidavit read by her counsel, she stated that she swore to some very unlawful circumstances and facts, and the ridiculous things of which she tells were referred by Judge York to the District Attorney.

WATER AND SCHOOLS.

COUNCIL TAKES STEPS TO SECURE MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The Signboard Ordinance is Passed and Signed by the Mayor—Exceptional Apathy Regarding Oil Matters—Routine Business.

While the sessions of the Council yesterday were not long and the proceedings were not enlivened by any animated controversies, nevertheless business of great importance to the city was transacted. As was expected, the Council passed the ordinance authorizing the issuance of $2,000,000 of water bonds for the purpose of purchasing and controlling the waterworks of the city with a view to the sale of that commodity. The bonds were voted by an overwhelming majority at a special election held on August 23, but for reasons of policy and because it was not possible to ascertain just what bearing the ordinance would have in the Superior Court and in the Federal Court, the ordinance was not passed until yesterday.

The ordinance recites at length the history of the proceedings whereby the present Los Angeles Water Company got control of the water supply, and also covers in detail the steps which led up to the award of $1,333,000 to the city with a modification of the ordinance. The bonds were voted by an overwhelming majority at a special election held on August 23, but for reasons of policy and because it was not possible to ascertain just what bearing the ordinance would have in the Superior Court and in the Federal Court, the ordinance was not passed until yesterday.

The ordinance passed yesterday does not provide for the sale of bonds, but merely authorizes their issue. When the bonds have been prepared and have been inspected as to form, the Council will pass an ordinance directing the clerk to advertise for bids, which will throw the issue on the market. If nothing now occurs in connection with the pending legislation, this ordinance will probably be passed just as soon as the matter can be brought to the attention of the Council. The Mayor has said that he will sign the ordinance just as soon as it comes to him, and it is not expected that there will be any long delay in disposing of the bonds.

SCHOOL BONDS.
On motion of Councilman Blanchard the City Clerk was authorized yesterday to advertise for bids on the $200,000 school bonds that were ordered by the Council at a previous session. The Mayor is anxious that these bonds be sold as soon as possible, and will sign the ordinance as soon as it is prepared for his approval. The date for opening the bids on the bonds has been set for October 23, at 11 o'clock a.m. These bonds were voted for common school purposes at a special election held on August 22. The original amount designed for improvement in the public school facilities was $200,000, but owing to a mistake made in drafting the ordinance the amount was reduced to $200,000. The Board of Education has been impatient at the delay, and the Council has been equally so, in consequence of the ordinance directing the clerk to advertise for bids at the last session. At that time the City Attorney gave it as his opinion that the ordinance was invalid, and the Council decided to proceed yesterday, regardless of the suit, which it is now thought will have no effect on the validity of the bonds.

BILLBOARDS TO BE REGULATED.
The billboard ordinance, with a few changes and alterations, was yesterday passed by the Council, and signed by the Mayor. The ordinance in its final form provided that hereafter no billboards be erected more than six feet in height from a point three feet above the ground; that three feet of space be left between the surface of the ground and the lowest board; that a license of $25 per quarter be charged, the license expiring quarterly; that a permit be demanded for each separate structure, and that all people living within 300 feet of the site of the proposed billboard be given due and timely notice; that those who wish to erect billboards above the regulation six feet be charged an additional license fee of $150 per quarter, and that a bond be demanded of those engaging in the business.

It had been expected that there would be a lively time when this measure was under consideration, as it was thought representative of the one bill pending in town would appear and oppose its passage. Nothing of the kind occurred, and H. Gaylord Wilshire, who has been identified with most of the sign advertising in this city, said last night that it was his intention to fight the matter out in the courts. "The Council has no right to take away from me a license to place signs on my property," he said, "and we never pay any attention to them. We expect the Council to take away from us the general ground of property rights, and we are confident of winning, because all ordinances have been knocked out in almost every city in the land."

The ordinance, while it will prevent the erection of any more billboards except such as conform to its provisions, will not affect the present structures until the expiration of the license now held. The Los Angeles Billboards Company, which owns nearly all the signs in the city, holds a license until January, and one license has been issued allowing Mr. Jones, a sign-painter, to paint on lots without license. It is thought that this latter license can be made to protect the present interests by leasing the structures.

The tall flimsy billboards, sometimes built up as high as thirty feet, have become a menace to the public in the eyes of many citizens. The ordinance blows a little stronger than usual, many collapse, endangering pedestrians and tearing down telephone and electric-light wires. The ordinance is in the phase of the question, the boards are often covered with daubs that are regarded as far from esthetic. The ordinance also provides that the Council may decide in their stand on the question, and say that if this ordinance won't stick they intend to keep trying until they find one that will.

Some of the real estate agents of the city have been much alarmed lest the ordinance should prohibit the placing of "For sale" signs on lots without license. They were informed yesterday that such was not the intention of the Council, and one of the members of the body, on the occasion, however, to remark sotto voce that even if it did have this effect, no particular harm would be done to the appearance of the city.

FIRE APPARATUS.
At the last session of the Council the Chief of the Fire Department was instructed to present a report regarding the location and condition of that department's fire apparatus belonging to the city, which is now stored. The report was also to include the amount of insurance carried on the apparatus. Yesterday the Chief presented his report, which was referred to the Finance Committee, as follows:

"On August 26 there was placed with the Fire Insurance Company insurance to the amount of $35,250, premium $380.00, for the term of six months, upon fire apparatus stored at the time in the corporation yard in East Los Angeles, since which time some of the apparatus has been removed to other locations. The apparatus is stored at the present time at the following locations:

"Old Amoskeag engines Nos. 1 and 2, located at the northwest corner of Pasadena avenue and Avenue 20; two combination hose wagons, insured for each $1,000, and one double-tank chemical engine, insured for $3,000. In the open in the corporation yard; one hose reel and one old cart, insured for $350. Public works for the city, insured for $1,000. Amoskeag engines Nos. 3 and 8, insured for $3,500 each, and one hose wagon, insured for $500, all being insured in the Fire Insurance Company. Shop on First street near Central avenue; Metropolitan engine No. 4, insured for $4,000, in engine-house No. 3, near the corner of Central avenue and Fourteenth street."

BIKE RACKS.
The bicycle-rack ordinance, which has been in the hands of the Board of Public Works for the past week, was reported to the Council and passed. Owing to the objections raised to the ordinance as it was originally drafted, by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and storekeepers, the ordinance was considerably changed. As finally passed, it provides that bicycle racks may be placed on sidewalks over six feet in width, provided the racks are less than two feet wide. The consent of the tenant must first be obtained, however, and no requirement as to distance apart will be demanded.

DETENTION HOSPITAL.
The Council is endeavoring to fix upon a site for a detention hospital. The special committee appointed to look into the matter reported yesterday that a number of sites had been examined, and while the price was in several instances satisfactory, they were either too remote, or were lacking in a proper water supply. The report also said that the committee had recently located several more sites that would be purchased at a reasonable figure. The report of the committee was reported and the City Engineer was instructed to advertise for bids, to be opened on the 15th inst.

THE SUPPLY COMMITTEE.
The Supply Committee reported recommending that the bid of the C. M. Jones Oil and Fuel Company to supply the city with coal and kindling be accepted. The bid was as follows: Wellington coal, 25 tons at $8.60 per ton; anthracite coal, 20 tons at $13.00 per ton; split pine kindling wood, 20 cords at $3.50 per cord. The report was adopted, and the City Attorney instructed to present the necessary contract and bond.

Ordinances of intention were presented by the City Engineer as follows: To establish the grade of Newhall street from Court street to First street;

to construct a cement curb and cement walk six feet wide, each side of the Stanford avenue from Ninth street to Twelfth street; to grade Western avenue from Twenty-fourth street to Adams street, under the bond act, the estimated expense to be $1.19 per front foot; to grade Figueroa street from Second to Fourth streets under the bond act, estimated cost $1.89 per lineal foot.

The City Engineer also presented final ordinances establishing the grade of Sanbury street from Ninth street to Tenth street.

The following communications from the Engineers were referred to the Board of Public Works for consideration: A portion of Lake Shore avenue from Montrose street to the north line of Echo Park for the purpose of making Lake Shore avenue of the uniform width of eighty feet from Montrose street to Sunset boulevard; the matter of the change of certain street names in the Garvanza annexed district, the report favoring the plan outlined in the petition of H. F. Lemard, ordinance dedicating certain land for Lake Shore avenue between Bellevue avenue and the Montrose street.

The following motions were passed by the Council: To instruct the Bridge Committee to have the bridges repainted and repaired in accordance with the report of the City Engineer; to have an arc light placed in the public market yard by the Los Angeles Electric Company at a cost not to exceed $2 per month; to approve the bonds of H. C. Register, James A. Riley and W. A. Bingham for furnishing and installing a water pipe on Stanley avenue; to instruct the Street Superintendent to raise the gutter in front of the Huff warehouse and the contiguity street with block stone; to instruct the City Clerk to advertise for bids for pumping, cleaning out and relining the Fremont avenue storm drain between Figueroa and First street; to instruct City Engineer to present ordinance establishing the grade of the street from the intersection of the intersection of Alameda and Macy streets.

An ordinance was passed directing the clerk to readvertise for bids for improving Pico street from Pacific avenue to Western avenue. Charles Stansbury, who had reported that he had collected $38 from sixty-eight vehicles, The City Clerk reported collections to the amount of $58.70.

The City Attorney was instructed to present the necessary ordinance to regulate the hours for keeping the public market open to between 4 and 9 o'clock a.m.

W. E. Morford, manager of the Free Labor Bureau, reported that 402 positions had been filled from the office during the month of September.

City Tax Collector White reported tax and license collections for the month of September to the amount of $14,452.

PROCRUSTINATING TACTICS.
No Action Yet Taken on the Oil Ordinance.

The fact that the only man who has invaded the oil limits near Sunset Park is Police Commissioner Parker seems to have had a very pronounced effect upon the city officials. No action has been taken against the Commissioner, who continues to ignore the ordinance passed by the Council, and defend the homes of one of the best residence sections from the encroachment of ugly derricks, and from the noise and odors attendant upon the pumping of oil.

An ordinance to extend the jurisdiction of the Oil Inspector westward to the city limits was to have come before the Council at the last session. At that time it was alleged that the only reason why it was not presented for the action of the Council was because Councilman Baker was not present, and he had expressed a wish to review it. The members of the Fire and Water Committee, to whom the ordinance had been referred, and the matter would certainly come up at the session that was held yesterday. Nothing was heard from the matter, and the members of the committee had only very lame excuses to offer for its non-appearance.

Councilman Parker said that the ordinance was all ready to present, and he could not see any reason why it should not have been presented. Councilman Todd was also entirely unable to think of any reason why the matter had not been presented to the Council in its regular order. Councilman Lauder, chairman of the committee, said that the ordinance had been delayed, but would give no reason. The ordinance only provides that the Oil Inspector have jurisdiction over the territory west of Coronado street, enabling him to impose the same regulations on oil wells near Sunset Park as are now in force in other sections of the city.

On Friday of last week it was said that a warrant would be sworn out at once, and no matter who was proven to be the offender, the law would be summarily dealt with. On Saturday the City Attorney gave out the information that the Oil Inspector had been sent to the wells that were within the limit to get the names of all those working on them, so that they could be included in the warrant. It was said, however, that the information was given that "probably" the warrant for the oil wells would be made out today, and that possibly Mr. Parker might also be in the city, by a request to come to the bar of justice.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association yesterday came to the rescue of the oil men, and presented a petition to the Council asking that a slice of the present protected territory be taken off the list of the ordinance. The proposition would be to temporarily satisfy the demands of the oil men, but would only prove in the end a pretext for an ordinance to be drafted by the oil men. The petition was referred to the Fire and Water Committee. President Silver refusing to refer it without a special committee, the petition was worded as follows:

"Whereas, the oil-producing industry of Los Angeles has been a large factor in the prosperity of this city, the value of the output amounting for the past six years to about $1,500,000 per annum, benefiting largely the merchants, manufacturers and laborers, and owing to steam producers in the cost of fuel from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 per annum, in addition to the cost of oil, and whereas, any restriction placed on the production of crude oil in this city by the City Council may be of vast injury to the general public, and in view of the limited area in operation, and whereas, a great deal of the territory now within the limits of the ordinance on which it is a misdemeanor to drill for oil, is at this time of no special value for residence purposes, and if oil wells were drilled and operated, no nuisance would be created against the Westlake residence section, as all the drainage of the territory passes considerably to the west."

That side of Commonwealth avenue to Seventh street, continuing the line south in the same direction to the intersection of the 1600-foot line from Westlake Park, as described by ordinance, where it would intersect the same line near Ninth street, thus protecting Westlake Park and surrounding residences to the south and west more than 1600 feet."

RECEIVED HER PENSION.
The Widow of the Late Detective Goodman Gets $1000.

The Board of Police Pension Fund Commissioners met yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Many matters of a routine nature came up for consideration. The secretary was instructed to send to the City Treasurer a demand for $1000, to be paid to Mrs. Goodman, the widow of the late John C. Goodman, whose real name was Ivan Gabriel Charsichalawickoff. The demand of A. B. Bates for $124.98 for pension salary granted on account of the death of his son, was also considered. The secretary was paid $25 as salary for September.

Taxes Coming In.
The taxes collected on real property yesterday amounted to $3500. A few dollars were collected on the excess personal tax.

[AT THE COURTHOUSE.]
TRIAL OF DUARTE BEGUN

SLAYER OF EDWARD LOPEZ AT BALDWIN'S RANCH.
His Acquittal to Be Asked for on the Ground of Self-defense.

Chaufosse and Crandall to Appear This Morning.

Gus Chaufosse, "Doc" Crandall and Frank Duarte, all charged with murder, were called in Department One yesterday morning. Chaufosse was arraigned for killing Jean Delaney on August 12, at East Market street. He was ordered to appear again tomorrow forenoon, at which time his attorney, Earl Rogers, Esq., will present a motion to set aside, claiming that two statutes have not been complied with that will affect the substantial rights of his client.

Substantially the same trial was recently ordered by the Supreme Court, Crandall's counsel, also asked that he, too, be arraigned tomorrow morning. His case will then be set for trial. He is charged with murdering Jack Bowman at Santa Monica in 1897.

Frank Duarte was up for trial. But very little interest is taken in his case. He is a heavy-set young Mexican who looks to be as strong as an ox. His hair is long enough and thick enough to make a football enthusiast, and his skin is of a light clear color that shows the result of three months in jail. In his eye is a gleam of defiance, and he looks to any of the race that are in trouble, bemoaning a feeling of utter hopelessness.

The crime for which Duarte was held to answer is the murder of Edward Lopez at Baldwin's ranch on the Fourth of July. Lopez met his death in the afternoon, about 5 o'clock. He was shot with a pistol in the hands of Duarte. When shot he had been selected to wear the football uniform, and was wearing it. Little more than these facts is known about the case. There were no witnesses to the shooting, and the only person who put up a plea of self-defense.

The star witness for the prosecution is Manuel Perez, who, after the jury had been selected yesterday, was on the stand most of the day. After the fatal shot had been fired, Perez said he was the first to look the pistol away from Duarte and do so, was compelled to strike him on the head, drawing a quantity of blood. He then rushed to the door and was drawn by Lopez, who provoked Duarte to use his gun. Otherwise, it is claimed, the killing was done in cold blood.

Duarte's counsel is H. H. Appel, Esq., associated with whom is S. A. Carlisle, Esq. The trial will probably conclude today.

FEW HOURS OF FREEDOM.
Frank Dolle Escapes Jail to Go to See His Wife.

Frank Dolle of Inglewood, who is serving a ninety-day sentence in the County Jail for stabbing Alexander Fossey in the back with a pitchfork last June, was yesterday permitted to visit his wife and baby for a few hours at home. Dolle is a "trusty," and was sent out to sweep the jail's steps, finish his job, and sweep the jail's steps, finish his job, and sweep the jail's steps, finish his job.

IN SAN QUENTIN NOW.
George Brown Expelled from Preston and Put in Penitentiary.

George Brown was so hardened when committed to the Preston School of Industry in August, 1898, that a year at that institution has done him no good. In fact, he has grown from bad to worse so rapidly that the officers of the school some weeks ago resolved that he must leave. Accordingly he was sent back to his committing court, where he was arraigned before Judge Shaw in Department Two. He pleaded guilty of burglary at the time he was ordered to leave the school, and the court after hearing his case yesterday, sentenced him to three years in San Quentin. Brown is a one-eyed man, and is now in the cell at home is on Jackson street, in this city. He was expelled from Preston on account of incorrigibility and an unusual development of the criminal element in his nature.

SERIOUS STATEMENTS.
Miss Lawley Says Things the District Attorney Will Look Into.

The motion of defendant to dismiss the seduction case of Anita Lawley against Curtis D. Colyear, in which damages in the sum of $10,000 are asked for, was denied by Judge York yesterday. The motion was made upon several affidavits to the effect that, for a consideration of $50, Miss Lawley had agreed to marry the defendant, and that she had made a full disclosure of her condition. That she had really delivered such a release was not denied by her counsel, but it was averred that she had by "fraud, misrepresentation and unfair advantage" been constrained to accept the money and sign an agreement to dismiss the action, without consultation with or consent of her attorney. That she had sworn to while Miss Lawley was sick at the County Hospital last January, was read, in which she stated that she had had an unlawful operation performed upon herself in February, giving extended details of the arrangement, and that she had been under the treatment of a doctor in this city, before taking the treatment. After Judge York had denied the motion to dismiss the case, he referred Miss Lawley's affidavit to the District Attorney, with an order to investigate the serious circumstances and allegations therein sworn to.

YACHT CLUB'S PROPERTY.
Was Its Transfer to B. W. Foster Made in Good Faith?

Representatives of the Southern Pacific and of the Terminal Railway were in Judge Allen's court yesterday morning on business involving nothing less than the title of the Terminal Yacht Club. E. Gibbon, Esq., counsel for the Terminal people, argued a motion to set aside the transfer of the Catalina Yacht Club property to B. W. Foster, who after that put it in the hands of the Southern Pacific. The motion is presented by Ferd K. Rule, a member of the club, who states that the transfer was not for the best interests of the yacht club.

It was pointed out, inasmuch as the property used by the yacht club was a special concession to it by the Terminal Railway Company, it was not going to be sold, but was to be property along to any one from whom the Southern Pacific could gain control of it. Mr. Rule, who charges some sort of a conspiracy to this end, is treasurer of the Terminal road. This allegation was one of the big features of the recent fight for a special ferry privilege between San Pedro and Terminal, which was finally awarded by the Supervisors to the Southern Pacific.

The definite charge is made against several members of the Catalina Yacht Club that they voted to sell the club property without due warning having been given to the rest of the membership, all of which is alleged to have been a play into the hands of Uncle John, who wants Terminal traffic.

To deny these allegations, affidavits were introduced in court yesterday in which statements were made that the clubhouse, situated on the island in the big storm that swept over the island last year, and its proper repair would have meant an unwise expenditure of money. It is further stoutly affirmed that the property transfer to B. W. Foster was for the club's best interest and that the club fully approved its action.

Yesterday's meeting of railway counsel afforded opportunity for several statements, but no more was heard. They were not infrequent between Mr. Gibbon and M. L. Groff, Esq., who appeared to oppose the petition of Mr. Rule. Judge Allen has not yet given a ruling upon the motion.

BRIEFS.
Miscellaneous Legal and Other Items.

INCORPORATION. Articles of incorporation of the Morris-Jones Oil Company were filed yesterday. The company's place of business will be Los Angeles. The directors are W. W. Slayden, H. R. Slayden, C. M. Jones, M. Van Sickle and P. W. Dooner. The capital stock is $4000, which is fully subscribed.

The National Mechanical Directory Company also filed articles of incorporation yesterday, with principal place of business in Los Angeles. The directors are George W. Maxwell, George M. Jones, Herbert R. Gage, William F. Botsford and Logan G. Davis. The capital stock is $100,000, which has been fully subscribed.

The First Church of Christ Scientist incorporated yesterday, naming its place of location as Alhambra. The Electrozone Manufacturing Company filed incorporation articles and named Los Angeles as its principal place of business. Its capital stock is $150,000, of which $137,000 has been subscribed. The directors are H. Ben White, D. C. Burrey, H. M. Johnson and C. A. Cole.

PROMISSORY NOTE. H. Mosgrove began suit yesterday to recover $1000 alleged to be due on an unsecured promissory note, dated October 9, 1894, and bearing interest at 7 per cent.

FOR FORECLOSURE. Ira Phillips began suit yesterday against Eugene Riffin, his wife, and others, to foreclose a $3000 mortgage, securing a promissory note dated June 8, 1897, and bearing interest at 11 per cent. The Equitable Building and Loan Association is suing Antoinette Watkins and others to foreclose a $1200 mortgage.

CONVEYANCE. Susie R. Hill is suing Leonard R. Hill to compel conveyance of property. It is alleged that a certain piece of land south of the city belonging to a plaintiff was to be held in the name of defendant until the payment by plaintiff of $25. This has been paid, but defendant, it is alleged, will not deliver over the deed.

NEW CITIZENS. Judge Smith yesterday naturalized three more. Batters D. boys, Per A. Ostberg, a native of Sweden, and Alfred Schaufelberger, a native of Switzerland.

MANDATE ORDERED. Judge Shaw yesterday ordered a writ of mandamus to issue against City Attorney Walter P. Hale compelling him to approve a contract with Edwards & Beyrle, given the firm by the city December 12, 1898, to furnish the necessary labor and material for the Broadway tunnel. Hale has been slow to approve the contract, because it failed to contain an eight-hour clause.

PUT UP NO BOND. Cephas Shibley failed to put up a bond for $200 a month to his divorced wife, as the court had ordered him to do by yesterday afternoon, and was appointed A. M. Cates receiver of property Shibley is alleged to have recently transferred to his mother without consideration.

Los Angeles in Great Luck.

A Donation of Ten Thousand Dollars to the People of This City.

BARTLETT BROS. THE DONORS.

Look Over the List and See if any of Your Friends are Among the Recipients.

After much thought and mature deliberation, the Great Bartlett Music House has finally decided to make to the people of this city and vicinity a donation of $10,000. This amount is to be divided among 200 people, and anyone who is possessed of $25 may be one of the fortunate persons. This is a first thought my seem a startling proposition, however, it is absolutely true.

We have leased for a term of years the new warehouses in the Music and Art Building on Broadway, and as soon as we dispose of our Spring Street Store, will move our business there. We now have in our store at 288 S. Spring St., nearly 200 pianos. We propose to sell every one of these within the next thirty days. This magnificent stock includes world famous makes: The Steinway, the Weber, the Kimball, the Wheelock and scores of others. These pianos were bought and are paid for, and are ours to do with as we please.

Of the stock of 226 pianos with which we opened our sale on Saturday morning, we have nearly two hundred still left. In the regular course of business, it would take the ordinary small dealer a whole year to dispose of this number of pianos. His rent in a fair location would cost him $350 per month, salary and expenses of competent salesman would be at least $500 more, while insurance, lights and incidental expenses would bring the total up to more than $1000 per month. This you will readily see will cost him at the end of the year $12,000. This $12,000 would of necessity have to be added to the cost of the 200 pianos, besides the additional profit which he would desire to make.

We intend to dispose of these 200 pianos inside of the next 30 days at an expense not to exceed $2000, leaving a total to somebody's credit of $10,000. If it costs the average dealer $12,000 and 12 months' time to sell 200 pianos and if we can sell the same number at an expense of $2000 in one month's time, who gets the saving of $10,000? Why, the people who purchase pianos from us, of course. Q. E. D.

This is a straight business proposition, and any business man can see the point. You are saved $10,000 and we are only out one month's time. We give you this $10,000 to come and get these pianos quick and let us move to our new store.

That the people have seen the point and appreciate it, is evidenced by the large number of sales made on our opening day, last Saturday. The list of purchasers was published in the Sunday papers.

Now, you would naturally suppose that the largest crowd would be in attendance on the opening day. Such, however, was not the case, as the result of today's work fully demonstrates. We thought we were holding open house on Saturday, but today we simply had to push our way from one end of the store to the other. Our corps of able assistants, however, managed to wait on several thousand customers in the small goods department, and we also sold twenty-five more pianos, some of which were sent out today.

The famous Weber Piano heads the list today. A beautiful Weber in a finest Circeanus walnut having been selected by Mrs. Wm. Kennedy of No. 1902 West Tenth street, while Dr. Edward L. Davis of 219 Loma Drive decided on a Weber in choicest San Domingo mahogany. This piano is beyond question the finest one among the uprichts that has yet been sold.

The reliable Whitney Piano came in for its share of attention, as did also the well-known Hemenway & Sons. Mr. D. F. Brummett of San Bernardino will receive tomorrow an elegant Whitney in French walnut finished case, while Mr. A. Tetebach, who lives at 928 East Twenty-ninth street, selected one of the same make in a beautiful oak case.

Mrs. C. E. M. Beall received at her home, No. 1221 East Twenty-second street, one of the beautiful new Hemenway & Sons, which has caused so much favorable comment by all who have seen it.

Of course the day could not pass without a great many of the New Scale Kimbells having been sold. The finest one in World's Fair Premium Style, quarter-section oak, with elaborate hand-carved panels, was chosen by Mr. Luther Brown for his mother, Mr. Mary E. Brown, whose home is at No. 1015 West Fourth street.

A well-known lawyer of the city selected a fancy, large size mahogany case Kimball to be sent to his new home which is now in course of construction, but at his express request, his name is withheld. Another Kimball was purchased by Mr. Bartlett, of Pomona, who is not in any way connected with the Great Bartlett Music House; and Mrs. Stahl, of 409 West Seventh street, was furnished with a beautiful walnut upright. Mr. Wm. Wright also purchased a Kimball.

Mrs. Ella Thomas, 1811 Echo Park, selected a handsome organ. Mr. W. H. Faust, the well-known insurance adjuster, received a beautiful Camp & Co. Mrs. Louis Applier, of 719 East Twenty-ninth street, purchased one of the $116 pianos. This was admitted to be worth more by several dollars. It was not, however, the last one of the kind we have, as several future customers will testify.

Mr. Jacob Amos, 221 Leroy street;

Mr. Milton Masena, 901 East Thirty-second street; Mr. R. L. Smart, with Hamilton & Baker Shoe House; Mr. Ed. Ayers of Tropic; Mrs. H. D. Platt, purchased pianos; also several others who prefer not to have their names appear in bold, bold type, and in deference to the request of these, their names are withheld.

Tomorrow will be Guitar Day. Guitars will be sold at $2, $3, $5 and $10; worth twice the amount or more in every instance. A good chance to buy your Christmas presents. Call early and make your selection at the OLD RELIABLE BARTLETT MUSIC HOUSE, 238 SOUTH SPRING ST.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3, 1899.
GOLD CERTIFICATES. To date the Treasury Department has issued nearly $65,000,000 in gold certificates.

COMMERCIAL.
DEARER SARDINES. The fight between trusts controlling the sardine pack seems to be settled, by the news from the East that American fish is advanced 75 cents per case. It will at once affect the local market.

THE OLIVE CROP. The market is bare of California olives. The new crop will be ripe in about two weeks, and in ten days after picking begins new olives will be on the market. The crop will be about the same as that of two years ago. Southern California when 2000 barrels of pickle olives was the output. In the northern part of the State the crop will be the largest yet harvested. It is impossible to predict how many will be picked, as most of the crop will be made into oil in that part of the State. All estimates for outside of the two or three big concerns which crush or pickle all their own product. Prices are not yet well defined, but it is thought that $20 to $25 per ton for good picking stock f.o.b. railroad stations will be about the limit of prices.

FOREIGN LEMONS. The quantities of lemons and oranges, by boxes, on the way to America, for the month of September 15, for the last three years are as follows:

1897.	1898.	1899.
Lemons.....33,500	36,200	54,800
Oranges.....2,900

On September 16 last there were in port to be sold 11,200 boxes of lemons.

ALMONDS BOOMING. The best almonds in the northern part of the State are bringing 12 cents from growers' hands.

CURED FRUITS. The California Fruit Grower reports that the cured fruits at San Francisco are as follows:

"There is a brisk business in cured, unpeeled, bleached peaches. Market is firm and prices a shade higher than one week ago. Apricots are scarce and firmly held at full quotations. Red and yellow cured plums are asked for and command about 2 cents over the prices for blue. New crop Smyrna figs are arriving in New York. Heavy shipments of figs are being made from California to eastern and western points. Evaporated apples are in demand at firm prices. The market is now turning its share of attention at this time.

"More attention is being paid to prunes, and if anything the market is a little firmer. Smyrna figs are held on a 2-cent basis for 60-90 size in bags f.o.b., only a few 90 to 100 size available. There has been good export demand at ruling rates but the money market is not orders are light. Bordeaux and Budapest markets are reported firm with an upward tendency.

"Government tenders for September amount to 72 cars evaporated apples, peaches and prunes, 25 cars of each. Apples at 74 cents, peaches 7 cents, prunes 48 cents for 60 to 90 size. Apples must be packed in twenty-five pound tin boxes, two tins to a case. This extra packing cost about 2 cents, and is added to the price.

CANNED GOODS. Of the San Francisco market for canned goods it is said that there is a good inquiry with but few orders to offer at present. Packers are busy filling and shipping early on orders, and will not name prices until they clean up and find just how they stand, as all have sold up close and some have overstocked. Heavy shipments by sea to England are being made. Three ships have cleared for Liverpool with 200,000 cases and two ships for London with 140,000 cases. The 1898 cases alpacas, new-crop roots.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.
CAMPOR MONOPOLY. The Japanese government's scheme for a camphor monopoly in Formosa has now been reduced to working form and embodied in a series of regulations. The government is to receive from manufacturers the right to produce camphor on the camphor oil produced on the island, the possession, says Bradstreet's, hypothecation, transfer or export of all other camphor or camphor oil being strictly limited. As to the price paid by the government for the camphor, it is to be fixed by the Governor-General. Manufacturers are required to render to the government every year a report of the anticipated amount of production, and for failure to do so, or for furnishing a false report, the penalty is a fine of from 10 to 100 yen. Officials connected with the monopoly are to have the right of visiting and inspecting stills and stores, and of enforcing suitable measures of control. The penalty for selling or exporting camphor independently of the government is heavy, namely, confiscation of the camphor and a fine of from 50 to 500 yen. Adulteration is punishable by a fine of from 10 to 100 yen, and the making of a false declaration or neglecting to make the required declaration. Since the government has taken the making of a false declaration or neglecting to make the required declaration as a crime, another set of rules relating to the manufacture of camphor have been issued. They are that any one desirous of manufacturing camphor or camphor oil must obtain official permission; that failure to commence the manufacture within the period prescribed in the permit may involve cancellation of the license; that the Governor-General shall have complete authority to suspend the license, or to revoke a license, should a course seem necessary in the public interest; that the license shall be forfeited if the licensee fails to pay the tax on his hands, suitable compensation being paid to him in the latter case, and that penalties of from 10 to 500 yen shall be imposed for violations of these rules. It is satisfactory to observe, however, that vested interests are respected. The last article of a set of supplementary regulations is that persons who have received a license to manufacture camphor under the regulations issued in 1896 and 1898 shall be regarded as already licensed, and the regulation indicated in the regulations.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

LOS ANGELES MARKETS.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3, 1899.
The week opens with very light stocks of poultry on hand, ducks, geese and turkeys being actually scarce.

The season for killing ducks in this county has closed, and there is no open season in this county for whether or not game killed out of the county can be shipped in and sold in here. Some wild ducks came in yesterday, and sold at $3.50 per dozen for teal, and $6 for speck.

Eggs are just as they closed last week.

Butter is firm, with some expectation that the local dairy combine may advance prices 24 cents per square at the meeting this afternoon.

Small lots of dried peaches bring 4 1/2 to 5 cents from first hand. Jobbing prices are 6 to 7 1/2 cents. Buyers do not seem to care to take hold much.

Hay is very firm at full prices. The demand is active.

Potatoes are unchanged. Poor quality are not in demand, but good potatoes sell freely. Sweet potatoes run the way from $1.50 for poor to $2.25 for extra fancy.

Onions are firm for all kinds except poor white.

Pears generally are firm and all are very active.

MEETING TO REVIVE PASADENA HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION.

Strong Committee on Organization Appointed—Present Hospital to Be Closed—Excitement at Meeting of Orange-growers' Association—Wild Creatures.

PASADENA, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] The agitation of the hospital question culminated this afternoon in two important events, a meeting of ladies and gentlemen of Hotel Green to organize a new hospital association, and the decision of Mr. and Mrs. Jorachsky to give up their lease of the present hospital and close the institution.

Twenty people were present at the meeting, including a number of physicians. P. M. Green was called upon to preside, and H. H. Klamroth was made secretary. There was a general discussion as to Pasadena's need of a permanent hospital, and entire agreement that the time had come for decisive action. The question of raising the necessary funds by private subscription was recognized, but the idea was expressed that if a beginning were made now, substantial results would likely follow. Several hundred dollars have already been pledged. There was some talk of endeavoring to get support from the city and establishing a municipal hospital; but it was explained that a new city charter would be required for such an enterprise, and two years would be required to obtain this, so the proposition was not pressed.

It was found that the general sentiment of the community was in favor of trying to continue the Pasadena Hospital in its present location. Unless somebody comes forward with plans for running it as a private enterprise, Pasadena will be without a hospital till a new foundation can be established. Mrs. McGilvray, the owner of the building, has offered to donate $100 if the hospital were continued in its old quarters till the new one is ready. Los Angeles parties came out to investigate the question of taking hold of it, but did not come to a favorable decision. It looks very much as though considerable time will elapse ere this city will have any accommodations for the sick and wounded, outside of private houses.

It was decided by this afternoon's meeting to reorganize the Pasadena Hospital Association under the old charter, and a formal vote was taken to that effect. Immediate action was urged and a committee of six was appointed to report a plan of operations at an adjourned meeting to be held at the same place Saturday at 3 p. m. The committee consists of A. R. Metcalf, Miss M. A. Bartlett, H. M. Robbins, Mrs. H. G. Bennett, H. H. Klamroth, Miss Senter.

WOMEN IN THE FIGHT.
The struggle over the sanitary district and saloon question in North Pasadena has reached the point where the women and children are taking part. Arrangements have been made for a woman's mass meeting in the North Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when women speakers will be heard. The meeting is in favor of the sanitary district. Next Friday night, Dr. Chapman, superintendent of the State Anti-Slavery League, will deliver a lecture. The children were enlisted in the war against the saloons today, when 150 badges were distributed among them by the women temperance workers. With the badges, banners and rallies, the suburb is feeling some of the thrills of a Presidential campaign.

ORANGE-GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.
A wave of excitement rolled over the annual meeting of the Pasadena Orange-Growers' Association this afternoon. Generally, it is hard to get a quorum at these meetings, and the proceedings are entirely perfunctory; but today a disposition to smash the slate and put in a new board, was manifested. After a lively discussion between the innovators and the conservatives, the old board was sustained and reflected. Following are the directors: W. Randall, J. H. Woodworth, Willie Thompson, E. L. Harris and Byron Lisk; secretary, J. P. Jones.

The association had a very successful season. Its receipts for the year were $17,773. It sold 10,194 boxes of oranges, of which 5887 were navel. The total resources are $200,000. The liabilities consist of 236 paid-up shares of stock of the value of $5 each and nineteen shares at $20 each. A dividend of 8 per cent. per share has been paid to the thirty stockholders. Although the association handled this year 2400 boxes of fruit less than last year, it paid out to stockholders $4000 more.

SAN PEDRO.

One Woman Who Drove Stage on the Desert.

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] Mrs. W. L. Crain returned today from an exciting trip up into Inyo county. She went by the stage line which is operated between Mojave and Keeler. She says that the stage, which is a big, strong one, was loaded heavily with freight and baggage. Some of the way only two horses were attached, but four were driven to it most of the way. The desert over which the line runs is exceedingly trying on the animals, which have a hard pull dragging the stage over the deep sand. The stage left Mojave at 6 p. m. As the night wore in, Mrs. Crain says the driver drank frequently, and finally let the lines drop from his hands. Fearing that the reins might get entangled with the horses' feet, she took them herself and drove most of the way from Red Rock Cañon to Indian Wells, a distance of thirty-six miles. Toward morning the driver from time to time jumped from the stage, ran along beside it, and picked up large stones, which he threw onto the seat and footboard. Many of these were as big as his fist. After gathering a lot of them he would jump aboard and throw them at the horses. They were thrown violently and seemed to produce no effect, suffering as they struck the heads and bodies of the poor animals. Mrs. Crain said that a severe cold was gripping the lines, but by tying them to the seat she succeeded in disposing of the heaviest part of the strain. The skillful manipulation of the long whip was too difficult a trick to master, but she managed to occasionally give a sharp snap to the reins. She says she saw clear evidence that the horses were underfed and overdriven, and that they were cruelly cut with the lash. A woman of the name Pine, she says, was the only other woman passenger, and witnessed her handling of the driver and the throwing of stones at the horses. She says that she is her intention to place the facts before the Los Angeles Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

SAN PEDRO BRITANNIA.

The gross receipts of the San Pedro postoffice for July, August and September were $690. For the corresponding quarter of 1898 the receipts were $657, making an increase of over 5 per cent. in favor of the year.

W. H. Savage, Grand Councilor of the Order of Chosen Friends of the Pacific, sailed today for San Francisco. He will be absent about two months, and will make a tour of inspection of councils of the order in California and Nevada.

LONG BEACH.

Postoffice Receipts Show Handsome Growth—Whale Boat.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] A school of apparently a dozen whales was seen off Dead Man's Island Saturday afternoon from the power-boat Ivy. The Ivy was out for a short cruise, and the big denizens of the deep kept her company for ten minutes at a distance of 300 feet. Several of the monsters were brown. One of them had a dorsal fin that looked to be ten feet in height. The others were smaller in size and were black, excepting the white patches on their heads. They leaped from the water, spouted profusely and had a general frolic.

LONG BEACH BRITANNIA.
The ten-inch well which is being sunk by the Long Beach Oil and Water Company on the Alamitos tract two miles east of town and a quarter of a mile from the ocean, has reached a depth of more than 500 feet. Successive strata of clay, of what apparently was once ocean sand, and of shells and again of dark clay have been penetrated. A slight flow of gas was also recently developed. The sand was ignited with a match, according to the testimony of the men on the ground. The borers were not working today on account of a break in one of the casing pipes. After a lively discussion between the innovators and the conservatives, the old board was sustained and reflected. Following are the directors: W. Randall, J. H. Woodworth, Willie Thompson, E. L. Harris and Byron Lisk; secretary, J. P. Jones.

The association had a very successful season. Its receipts for the year were $17,773. It sold 10,194 boxes of oranges, of which 5887 were navel. The total resources are $200,000. The liabilities consist of 236 paid-up shares of stock of the value of $5 each and nineteen shares at $20 each. A dividend of 8 per cent. per share has been paid to the thirty stockholders. Although the association handled this year 2400 boxes of fruit less than last year, it paid out to stockholders $4000 more.

ORANGE COUNTY.

A LARGE OIL DEAL MADE IN THE OIL DISTRICT.

Over Eight Thousand Acres Transferred for Three Hundred and Forty Thousand Dollars—Development Continues to Increase.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] There seems no longer to be any doubt as to the important position Orange county is to occupy in the development of oil in this coast. During the past several months there have been many sales of valuable oil territory in the northeastern portion of the county, yet the general public had but little conception of the real extent to which the development of this industry is destined to go.

It has only been a few years since it was first discovered that oil existed in any quantity below the surface in this county, and then it was believed to be in very small quantities—scarcely enough to justify development. Later, however, several large tracts of land were attracted to this locality, and the reports of oil experts were flattering. Several large tracts in the foothills, which had previously been valued only as pasture for sheep were bought up, and soon prospecting for oil became a general feature of the land values began to advance. It is not now a longer a drug on the market.

Today four deeds were filed here transferring over eight thousand acres of oil land to the Consolidated Oil and Oil Company, the aggregate consideration being $340,000. This land was formerly owned by W. Bailey Jr. The Olinda Oil Company, the Richfield Oil Company, and the Olinda Ranch Company, the Consolidated Olinda Oil Company, has secured control of the oil interests of the other companies above mentioned, and it is expected that this company will make extensive developments in the oil district in Orange county during the next few months.

SANTA ANA BRITANNIA.
Charles Allen and Joe Basquez, the two Mexicans who were arrested a week ago for fast and reckless driving on Fourth street, were found guilty Saturday before Justice of the Peace Wilson and sentenced to ten days in the county jail.

A larger amount of fruit has been dried this season in the western portion of the county than ever before. The increase is due in part to new orchards and the growing good prices for the product in the eastern market.

Charles F. Lummis of Los Angeles delivered an interesting lecture in this city Saturday afternoon before the members of the Ebell Society on "The Giant's Strength," laying much stress upon the power of the modern press.

Almost the entire raisin product of the Santa Ana Valley is now in trays. Another week or two of fair weather and the raisin-growers will have nothing to fear from the fall rains.

Another large batch of quartz-mining claims were filed here today, the claims being located in Perduca Cañon, about a dozen miles west of the town of Capistrano.

The public schools of this city opened today with a very large attendance.

ANAHEIM.
Fine Crop of Walnuts Being Picked and Packed.

ANAHEIM, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] The picking and delivery at the packing-houses began in earnest today. Nuts are turning out fine and in most groves the cash returns will be as large as those from last year's crop.

Miss Ida Olefson is here from Chicago for a brief visit to her brother, Frederick Olefson, after which she will leave for Shanghai to resume work as a missionary. Miss Olefson is a native of China for seven years and has just concluded a two-year lecturing tour in this country.

Business in this city during September was far better, according to business men, than during the same month last year.

Streets are receiving a topping of red gravel in the worst places. These streets will be kept well supplied.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

Isthmus Chosen as the Site for the New Town.

AVAILON (Santa Catalina Island), Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] The Ebbell Company has definitely decided that the Isthmus shall be the site of their new town. A new name will be selected for the place, and they have a number under consideration. The preponderance seems to be in favor of calling the new town Catalina or Catalina City, but further time will be taken before deciding. Already a well is being dug, surveying has been commenced, grading will be begun tomorrow, and it will be but a short time till the place will be shaped up to represent a population of between three and four hundred people.

SANTA CATALINA BRITANNIA.
The power schooner Gerald C., from San Pedro, with twenty or thirty people aboard, dropped anchor in the bay yesterday, and made no attempt to land. This is the first foreign boat that has visited Avalon, since the decision of the Board of Supervisors was given out, more than a month ago, barring the Alert, Capt. Waterhouse's little schooner, which is not placed in the category of tramp craft. While the Banning Company has decided to eventually throw this port open, the date when such action will be taken has not been decided.

A. W. Biddle and J. M. Beck went on a fishing trip to the Isthmus Saturday on the launch Adelaide, and brought back thirty. Their haul showed the effects of fights with game fish.

A. W. Morris and C. G. Griffith brought in an eighty-five-pound sunfish, a black sea bass weighing 110 pounds, and half a dozen yellowtail Saturday.

The mackerel have been biting well for a few days. It was a poor fisherman that could not bring in from twenty to forty big fish in one hour's fishing.

summer here, returned to their home yesterday for their summer's outing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bright of Chicago left today. She spent six months on the island.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Armstrong of New York, who have spent the summer here, leave today for Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Washburn are spending a month on their ranch at Tropico.

Dr. Henry Gibbons, one of San Francisco's most prominent physicians, accompanied by his daughter, are guests at Hotel Metropole.

W. H. Foote, clerk of Hotel Metropole through the season, with his wife, left for Los Angeles today.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

Loss of Timber by Fire—How Two Men Were Killed.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] The forest fires that have been raging furiously at Palomar Mountain were very destructive. The loss in timber to the district is heavy. Many campers lost their outfits, including horses and baggage, and barely escaped with their own lives. George Heymann and Fletcher Courtney of this city were encircled by the sea of flames, and decided to shoot each other if, folled in a last attempt at escape. They managed to find an exit through comparative bushes and trees. Clothed in rags and with their skins parched, they walked a distance of about thirty miles to catch a stage.

SINKING MORE WELLS.
Having already sunk 125 wells for irrigation purposes, the San Diego Land and Town Company is at present sinking fifteen new ones in the Imperial valley. The Chula Vista lemon groves that have been supplied with water from the older wells having used up their water, the company has decided to sink new wells to put in to assure plenty of water until the fall and winter rains begin.

SAN DIEGO BRITANNIA.
Immense quantities of grapes are being shipped from the Broadbelt and Dorn vineyards at Escondido to Los Angeles.

Herman C. Cooke, the last gold-seeker to return from the about-deserted and desolately wasted Sierra Pintada placers, brings the news that only about eight Americans remain in that region. He is accompanied by Messrs. Hatch and Long of Los Angeles.

The Normal School and the quarantine station located here were inspected today by members of the State Board of Health.

CORONADO BEACH.

HOTEL DEL CORONADO, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] Dr. and Mrs. Hermadi of Budapest, Hungary, accompanied by E. R. von Porthem of Prague, Austria, who are spending a week in California, are guests at the hotel.

Capt. Charles T. Hinde has returned from an eastern trip of several weeks' duration.

Saturday's golf game on the Coronado golf links attracted a number of the game's devotees from over the bay. It was a very brilliant and exciting, and annual scores were the result. Among those with good scores for Saturday were Capt. and Mrs. Maize, Mrs. Shirley, Mrs. Wood and Miss Ruce, San Diego; Misses O'Connor, San Francisco; Misses Mary and Helen Healy and Messrs. Bernard McKenzie, Wheeler J. Bailey, Graham E. Babcock and J. R. McNab.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

Sudden Death of Joel H. Cooper, a Pioneer.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] Joel H. Cooper, an attorney and politician of this county, was found dead in his room last night. Cooper retired about 9 o'clock, and 10 persons passing under his room were attracted by blood dropping from the sidewalk from an upper room. On investigation, Cooper was found in his night clothes in a chair near the window with his head hanging out. He had had a severe hemorrhage, and could not call for assistance, but went to the window to attract attention, and there died. Cooper was an ex-Assemblyman from this district, and a well-known attorney of this county. He was 57 years of age, a native of Missouri and a pioneer.

He leaves a widow and three stepchildren.

REDLANDS.

Big Reception Planned for Capt. Diss Tomorrow.

REDLANDS, Oct. 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] Arrangements are completed for a reception to Capt. J. W. F. Diss of Battery D, upon his return to this city on Wednesday. Capt. Diss was a resident of Redlands when he began his military career. When the Redlands Guards were organized, long before they were admitted into the National Guards, Diss became the captain of the company. When he returns he will be given a right royal welcome.

The committee to escort Capt. Diss from the hotel to the Academy of Music consists of the officers of Co. G, N. G., Maj. J. E. Drake and Dr. T. M. Blythe. At the hall he will be welcomed to the city by Mayor Fowler.

Capt. G. S. Bignin will extend greetings of welcome on behalf of Co. G and Maj. Drake will speak on behalf of the Redlands Guards, the organization from which Co. G was formed. The G. A. R. will also extend welcome through R. W. Mater, commander of the post. Dr. T. M. Blythe will speak for the citizens of Redlands, and H. B. Wilson for the Redlands Guards.

The formal addresses there will be a general social time in the hall, when the ship of a domestic water system reports satisfactory progress.

REDLANDS BRITANNIA.

According to the records of the Redlands weather observer, the month of September was the warmest of the season, averaging warmer than July by 14 deg., and warmer than August by 16 deg. The maximum temperature of the summer was 106 deg., on the 19th. There was a monthly range of 54 deg., and on the 16th a daily range of 44 deg.

The committee at work upon the matter of securing data upon which to make a campaign for municipal ownership of a domestic water system reports satisfactory progress.

PUBLIC DEBT.

Decrease for September is Over Eight Millions of Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business September 30, 1899, the public debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,148,905,801, a decrease for the month of $8,400,775. This decrease is accounted for by a corresponding increase in the cash on hand. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest-bearing debt, $1,046,859,500; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,215,030; debt bearing no interest, $389,337,512; total, $1,436,001,892.

This amount, however, does not include $647,965,903 in treasury notes outstanding, which are offset by an equal amount of cash on hand. The debt is classified as follows: Gold, $354,520,790; silver, $499,628,499; paper, $78,678,148; bonds, deposited in national bank depositories, $1,000,000,000; United States notes, $1,015,241,088, against which there are demand liabilities outstanding amounting to $327,545,473, which leaves a net cash balance on hand of $287,695,612.

LOGGERS CREMATED.
Many Bodies in Ruins of a Bradford, Pa., Rooming-house.

BRADFORD (Pa.) Oct. 2.—A lodging-house was destroyed by fire today and George V. Brown (colored) was cremated. It is feared that other bodies will be found in the ruins, as there were a great many lodgers in the building. The loss will be about $50,000.

What is Cream of Tartar?

When the juice which is pressed from grapes for wine-making ferments, the acid of the fruit is crystallized and precipitated. This is collected, refined to absolute purity, and ground to a powder. This is cream of tartar.

Fruit acids are among the most wholesome and important constituents of the food of man. They are absolutely requisite to maintain health. In grape cream of tartar there are combined the most useful of leavening agencies and a most healthful food article.

This highly refined acid of the grape, or cream of tartar, is the material from which Royal Baking Powder is made. It is many times more expensive than ingredients used in many baking powders, but being healthful in itself, it adds healthfulness to the food instead of degrading it.

In imitation baking powders poisonous alum is used instead of healthful cream of tartar. Such powders seriously affect the health.

MEN'S SHOES.

$5, $6, $7.

There is a dollar more of pains-taking selection of materials in the $6.00 shoes than in the $5.00.

If you can't afford the extra dollar you'll get comfort and wear from the $5.00 kind. If you can add still another dollar you will get in the $6.00 shoe the top notch in shoe style.

Whatever you can afford to pay will buy a better shoe here than elsewhere.

COMPLETE SHOWING OF COUNTER

MILLINERY

By this we mean every millinery article that is not a trimmed hat. We wish to emphasize the fact that no store, east or west, great or small, can offer you a better selected line of millinery requisites, or an assortment that is so reasonably priced. There is no stock with which to compare ours, either in point of quantity, quality or price. We show more kinds and more of a kind than can be gathered from all other Los Angeles sources combined. We buy direct of manufacturers. We buy as cheaply as the largest jobbers in the whole United States. We buy in the largest quantities. We conduct a wholesale department on a strictly "spot cash" basis, and we can retail counter millinery at wholesale prices, or, in other words, we save you the usual retail profits.

We make the above statements because we believe them true, and we wish you to give them careful consideration and to investigate the stock upon which they are based. There are advantages in buying counter millinery of us.

Bright Finish Felts Just look about a bit before you select a bright finished felt shape. $1.50 and $1.75 is the common price. We have the very best quality to be had—and many shapes that are exclusively ours and the price is..... $1.00

Fur Felt Shapes There are all kinds. Some are made from old discarded hats, pressed over from any old shape; but we buy none of these. Our fur felts are called French felts, but they are all made in Newark, New Jersey, from clear stock, which is rabbits' hair; we can not sell them for less than $1.50 and..... 75c

Felt Shapes Our Sicilian wool felt shapes are the best in the world and must not be confused with the felts which are principally glue and shoddy. They are as clear and clean as air. $1.25 is the common price for this quality; our price..... 75c

Buckram Frames If you want a buckram frame in any shape we will sell you the best three ply goods for..... 15c

Golf Hats by the Thousand Yes, thousands of them, and almost as many styles—not a glue-and-shoddy felt among them, either. Every one is solid, good material, that will not streak or grow rough or "brush off." The latest and prettiest of styles priced from $7.50 down to..... 75c

Fashionable Trimmings and Laces.

We show this season more trimmings and prettier trimmings than it has ever before been our good fortune to own. We import many of them direct. We own them at the lowest possible prices. The line includes everything that is used in dress garnishing, and there are hundreds of kinds. We summarize as follows:

Applique trimmings in colors, black, white and black on white, from 1/4 to 3/4 inch wide, priced from $2 down to..... 25c

Some beautiful chiffon and liberty silk trimmings in these little juddies so popular for edgings, all the popular shades are shown, per yard..... 10c

Spangled trimmings is very popular, we are showing 42 different patterns in all widths, spangled bands, spangles on mousseline de soie, spangles on nets, spangled ornaments, etc., ranging in price from $4 down to..... 20c

Black silk and mohair gimps in 200 new patterns from 1/4 to 3/4 inch wide, chiffon effects, also silk gimps in jet effects, a variety of widths, priced from $5 a yard down to..... 6c

Flexible Rubber Dental Plates

Have many advantages over the old thick, cumbersome, ordinary rubber plates, and even over gold plates, being much lighter and thinner.

These plates are flexible, only a trifle thicker than heavy writing paper, fit closer and adhere better to the roof of the mouth. Particles of food and small seeds cannot get under them. They will last longer, are stronger than any others, and will not break as they will give first, being flexible. Once tried none other will be desirable. Dr. Schiffman's own process, brought the notice of the public by him only, and made ONLY by us. A perfect fit guaranteed in every case of plate work.

Persons having trouble with their plates or in having plates fitted, are invited to call and consult us.
